The Attacks Are Worse The Closer We Get To THE TRUTH

Actually, what Commander Hatonn said in a most critical writing (starting on Page 2) is that HE must be doing SOMETHING right since, after all, certain very key puppets—among all those in that vast stable of the adversarial crooks—are laboring at full steam to discredit his work and team. In fact, they may have finally blown a gasket in the trying.

The latest blundering attempt—by the inscrutable team of Gritz, Green and Anderson—takes absurdity to a new height (depth?) and only goes to show how fearfully desperate are the crooks caught in their own game.

But not to worry. Commander Hatonn is never one to miss an opportunity to make lemonade from the "lemons" (especially the two-footed variety) and thus nicely sums up the ploy with a prophecy of appreciation: "As the 'front' heats up in confusion, and time nears for 'takeover' by the New World Order, I wish to offer thanks and appreciation to those who work diligently and unendingly to PROVE MY PRESENCE."

Indeed, the neck of the funnel continues to narrow and much going on right now here, locally, and on the larger world scene, is clear testimony to the "desperation plays" forcing the adversary's puppets to foolish attack. From earthquakes, to weather, to wars and rumors of wars, don't lose sight of their need to first bury TRUTH at any cost and then battle for position among themselves.

In a recent dynamite interview with Ross Perot on the C-SPAN cable TV channel (the first half of which we share with you starting on Page 16), Ross dryly observes at one point, "There are rules of war. There are no rules in politics." Well, maybe there used to be. But none of you longtime readers familiar with CONTACT's sobering presentations of the news and newsmakers would likely agree that "rules" hold anymore in war, either.

I wonder: would Ross say that was "politics" or "war" when he debated Gore?

I wonder, further: how would our Founding Fathers have viewed that so-called "debate"?

Big 'Red' Beckman, longtime patriot and philosopher, frames some of these questions about public service in his thought-provoking piece on Page 18. Look how he deftly contrasts a Statesman with a Politician.

And from a sadly human angle, the ongoing trial of the Branch Davidians (on Page 14) acts as a constant reminder of just what depravity has taken over this once-great nation, once under God. Some days I think we all wonder if this mess can possibly be turned around!

For all of you out there trying your best, just look up at the headline and know, if the heat is on you, that your compass must be pointing in the right direction. And remember, you're in very good company!

INTRODUCTION

THANKS AND APPRECIATION

Editor's note: Although this writing is the Introduction to Commander Hatonn's latest JOURNAL, MISSING THE LIFEBOAT??, the importance of the subject under discussion suggested that we highlight this matter with a special headline.

As the 'front' heats up in confusion, and time nears for 'takeover' by the New World Order, I wish to offer thanks and appreciation to those who work diligently and unendingly to PROVE MY PRESENCE. I specifically wish to take note and offer appreciation to ones, Col. James 'Bo' Gritz, George Green, Gary Anderson (known under so many names as to be unable to list appropriate or current label), and all those participating in their nest of co-workers.

Mr. Green, for instance, gains ability to lie and have the courts back him up by his unending stream of 'connections' (such as: 'Ask Bo Gritz,' and, 'I'm just an 'agent' smoking out these cult operators....' etc.). Gary Anderson goes forth with their costly and DANGEROUS plan for sucking you nice people into 'trusts' which will be confiscated and a full-out effort to see to it that you "patriots" do all the right things TO GET YOU DEADED IN THE UPCOMING CLOSE-DOWN OF YOUR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS. Mr. Green took over $350,000 plus at least an additional $200,000 in GOLD COINS sent to the Phoenix Institute for use in purchasing collateral gold to cover all debts and loans made to that entity, the funds of which were KNOWINGLY set forth for publication of the paper, information and legitimate and ongoing projects for food growing, storage facility industry and safety, fabricated housing utilizing safety materials against natural hazards AND, should it happen, blasts and atomic accidents and fallout. To retain the gold which resided buried in his backyard in Nevada and now in the "court" he has fabricated other great and wondrous tales.

Green's most recent (last week) is that Capt. Russbacher agreed and is in pay-off position from the Feds, in exchange for his release, to 'pull down the most notorious and dangerous cult leaders in America—THE EKKERS!' He goes on to tell 'everyone' (his favorite term) all about it as well as to "...uncover other massive subversive activities of these two dangerous criminals." (The Ekkers). Well, I have to repeat, if these "criminals" and this 'cult' are in point it is the most unsuccessful operation in the history of MAN. It is amusing to find EVERYTHING coming under the most intense investigations available to conjure by Green and buddies—passing and nothing amiss—especially the fundamental operations of the Institute—in spite of being set up BY GREEN as a rip-off deal, apparently. He set up the program—EKKER JUST MADE SURE IT WAS RUN WITH INTEGRITY AND ABSOLUTELY ACCORDING TO BOTH THE LAWS OF GOD AND THE LAWS OF THE LAND—which Green, by the way, has been efforting to break down ever since. As to cult? This is also the smallest "cult" in the history of man—two elderly people who have tried to simply retire after having lost every physical item of value to such as Green and the "system".

I SUGGEST EACH AND EVERY ONE OF YOU DO SO! IMMEDIATELY AND OFTEN—HOURLY, DAILY AD INFINITUM.

Call Gritz's 800 number and get the information (800-476-0685).

With these kinds of "enemies", my good friends, why worry about the elements of Constitution destruction or the rioters, looters, thieves and gunfighters??

Do not think for one minute that I am "against" these goodly teachers for they serve the most impressive jobs on the globe—that of disinformation, deceit and legal manipulation which expresses the very epitome of that which has GONE WRONG in your nation and world—AND PERSONAL VALUES.

Bo Gritz comes forth with his "bible" and tells you he is "born again" and "trusts only and wholly on Jesus Christ". There is NOTHING in his behavior which reflects the slightest LIGHT of JESUS CHRIST! These gentlemen in point are in the business for the money and to set-up the unsuspecting audience for their gain and your loss. The survival programs teach you that you can do things WHICH, IN FACT, WILL GET YOU KILLED OR INCARCERATED! They overcharge on "supplies" and "offerings" and could not serve better, the adversary of your free nation, than if they sold handguns which fire atomic warheads—they just get you killed in a more dastardly manner while insuring the loss of everything you hold dear and precious in TRUTH and freedom.

I, Hatonn, am exactly who I say I am. I am in charge of the HOSTS OF GOD come in preparation for the return of your Brother, the Christ—and YOU will not limit this being by labels of YOUR making. IS IT NOT SAID THAT THOSE WHO WOULD CLAIM RIGHTEOUS-NESS WOULD MAKE ALL EFFORTS TO DISCREDIT AND DECEIVE THE MASSES TO PREVENT THE TRUTH FROM FLOW? Do you not see it happening right before you?

Why would "I" be an enemy to ones efforting to help your nation and people?? I am NOT running around professing to BE ANYTHING OTHER THAN WHICH I AM and I am NOT running around ANYWHERE on your place and have never stated any other. Now, WHY would I be such an annoyance to ones such as Col. Gritz?? You had better think about this carefully. I advocate only the most simple

Laws of God in both heart and action—and insist that WISDOM and KNOWING are the important tools through which you will reclaim ALL of that which is Godly and Right. So, WHY does my presence cause such objection from these others who bother to make ridicule and focus on a couple of harmless old people? Well, I think you-the-people are far more valid and intelligent than to bite on such absolute drivel as is now being presented by Sir Gritz on his radio-waves.

It has been reported and now, checked out, that he is indeed saying that this woman, Doris, IS Hatonn and by signing up and paying in the hundreds you can get an interview AND by paying in the thousands (dollars) you can get a ride on "his" spaceship, etc., etc., and for further information on the subject call Gritz's 800 number and get the information (800-476-0685).

I SUGGEST EACH AND EVERY ONE OF YOU DO SO! IMMEDIATELY AND OFTEN—HOURLY, DAILY AD INFINITUM.

What could we be doing or telling that terrifies the thieves and deceivers so greatly?? What are we telling of GOD which shows them to be that which they are—at the least, ignorant and deceitful. You see, it PROVES that I represent no small-time 'little 'gray' or a small hitch in their get-along come to argue over the orthodox offerings of misspoken instructions from the 'good book'. No indeed, my friends, they simply PROVE my Truth BY THEIR foolishness. You can be sure with all that is going on around my activities, musings, offerings and my people, that I AM EXACTLY WHO I CLAIM TO BE for otherwise two little elderly people who have nothing, go nowhere and simply 'write' as would any ministers in any subject material or authorship, would NOT get a first glance from such important 'experts', much less radio time to consider the point. If I am NOTHING save a big buffoon—who would bother with me—i.e., WHO WOULD GO ABOUT KICKING A DEAD DOG? Worse, for their purposes of cleaning their hands of the blood, they go for destruction of two elderly people who simply continue to defend the integrity and stability of the business in point and reclaim the stolen property—not even for the Institute but FOR THE PERSON ORIGINALLY MAKING THE ERROR OF ROUTING THE GOLD THROUGH GREEN!

How do I know they are all working together, these ones above? They claim to be—they advertise products as offered by the other AND they even feature the expert authority one for the other.

These presentings, such as Gritz made last evening and suggesting his 800 number calls, are obvious, are they not? They play upon the ignorance of the receiving public and effort to plant the 'IDEA' OF SOME CULT OR OTHER ACTIVITIES TAKING PLACE HERE. Sorry, there is NOTHING—not even a tiny group AND THEY KNOW IT. It is only you who do not know it. I suggest that if any one of you read five articles or JOURNALS BY ME that you would 'rotten egg' them off the podiums for their stupidity. When TRUTH is put forth—the adversary, when he cannot pull it down from other attacks, always resorts to setting LIES into play for deceit and trickery—just as do your less obvious media orchestrators and other totally controlled outlets. In other words, tell the lie often enough and the 'simple' people are suckered.

Well, friends, there is nothing to hide here and it must make you all wonder WHY there is such effort to discredit on a personal basis—ME? I MUST BE DOING SOMETHING RIGHT?

Why would they use one Bo Gritz? Because I endorsed him early on and you will never know whether I did so to pull him out of his baseboard or if he indeed had or has potential to SERVE GOD. I did not say "Hatonn"—I SAID GOD. This is the task of the Hosts—to prepare and sort and ready a place for the return of the Godly being. We have NOTHING to do with RELIGION or POLITICS. We serve ONE MASTER—GOD OF LIGHT and no other—although all OTHERS will be left to their own salvation or loss thereof. I have a job and we are doing it—what YOU do with the information and offered guidance in this arena is purely and strictly up to you.

Im sorry, I shall repeat for the thousandth time: YOU CANNOT PURCHASE YOUR WAY TO INTERVIEWS, TRIPS OR SILLY GARBAGE TOURS. I DO NOT GIVE INTERVIEWS—AND DORIS EKKER HAS NEVER UNDER MY CIRCUMSTANCES GIVEN ANYTHING EVEN REMOTELY CONNECTED WITH "INTERVIEWS". DORIS EKKER CLAIMS TO BE NOTHING and perhaps that is why these ones are so bastardly about it—they claim great expert authority and Doris CLAIMS NOTHING, asks no focus and I have a statement to make—anyone who sits with us in any so-called gathering—does so openly without offerings, donations, may participate and cannot help but see that there is nothing of church, group or any other operations going on. Bo Gritz has sat with us, Gary Anderson has sat with us and of course, Green set up what he could to make this a focus as a UFO sort-of nut-group. I will say that Gary Anderson owes the Institute a KNOWN $90,000, Bo Gritz at the least, personally, $19,000 plus, and Green, of course, over half a million dollars. Now, do you still think there is no PURPOSE in siding together and working a sham-scam attack on Doris Ekker and Hatonn??

They are welcome to continue these interesting statements, but as with other lies, they shall be caught up in their own tricks. If Doris Ekker would be all that she is accused of—she would have been running the entire world by now, don't you see? If SHE has all the human power and capability as offered by these 'mouthing experts' why don't you run HER for President—she obviously would be as good at filling the role as is Clinton Billaries.

NOPE, READERS—GOD IS WORKING EXACTLY AS HE HAS PROMISED AND HAS SENT US FORTH BEFORE HIM TO PREPARE A PLACE AND, HOPEFULLY, RECLAIM HIS LOST PEOPLE—BUT AT THE LEAST, HIS OWN. YOU CAN JOIN WITH THE HOSTS AND GOD AND MOVE IN POSITIVE RECLAMATION OR YOU CAN SIT BACK BEING DECEIVED BY THE EXPOSED DISINFORMERS FOR THEIR OWN PURPOSES—AND GARNER THAT WHICH YOU WILL—THAT IS NOT MY BUSINESS BUT IT SEEMS TO ME THAT YOU CLAIM SUCH 'RIGHTS' AND 'RIGHTEOUSNESS' THAT IT MIGHT BEHOVE TO BE DISCERNING.

YOU ARE, AS A WORLD, HEADED INTO A DASTARDLY NEW ORDER WHICH SHALL BE MOST UNPLEASANT. A FEW WILL EFFORT TO GAIN GREATLY AS THE SYSTEM COMES DOWN UPON YOU AND YOU WILL MARCH TO THEIR DRUM IN CONFUSION, ETC. THAT IS YOUR PRIVILEGE—BUT BEWARE THOSE WHO FOCUS ON THAT WHICH IS MADE TO APPEAR FUNNY AND RIDICULOUS

MAY WELL MISS THE LIFEBOAT!

Again, I urge you to call Mr. Gritz and inquire about this terrible Doris Ekker and how you might get a ride beyond. The RIDE you will experience is the idiocy of such characterizations. At the first calls this morning to the 800 number the caller received great humor and laughter from the answering party, a lady—I doubt the humor will be so appreciated as the days wear on and YOU DO YOUR OWN INQUIRING. So be it.

Do I CLAIM to be 'Aton'? No—I AM ATON.

Go look it up in your history books!! That DOES NOT IN ANY MANNER SUGGEST THAT DORIS EKKER CLAIMS TO BE ANYTHING OR ANYONE ANY MORE THAN YOUR LOCAL PREACHER OR RABBI CLAIMS TO BE GOD OR JESUS. FURTHER, DORIS DOESN'T EVEN CLAIM TO BE A PREACHER!! SOMEBODY IS PUTTING YOU ON, LISTENERS AND READERS—AND IT IS NOT GOD NOR DORIS. ARE YOU NOT TIRED OF 'BEING HAD'? GOOD GRIEF, READERS, IS IT NOT TIME YOU OPENED YOUR EYES TO THE PROBABILITIES OF YOUR 'TIME' AND STOP THIS GARBAGE?

DO YOU REALLY WANT A PRESIDENTIAL LEADER WHO WOULD PLAY SUCH STUPID GAMES ON YOU? THESE PEOPLE IN POINT ARE EFFORTING TO COVER THEIR ASSES IN EVERY SENSE OF THE TERM—BUT FUNNY THING—YOU, NOR THEY, CAN HIDE ANYTHING FROM GOD!

I will let you readers in on a private recognition from Doris (Dharma). This type of assault gives confirmation to her for the TRUTH she writes—for as the 'dead dog' in suggestion—why would her worst enemies go to such lengths to discredit her—she has nothing to get or discredit. It is a bit like assaulting Mother Teresa—what are you going to discredit and claim, her place in the street for a bed or her load burden of work among the sick and wounded? The OBVIOUS becomes recognized—THE POINT IS TO DISCREDIT HER SPEAKERS OF TRUTH—AND IN THAT SHE GETS HER OWN CONFIRMATION THAT SHE SERVES IN TRUTH AND LIGHT. This is usually hard to handle in the human confrontation—but not on the spiritual level—it proves the truth of the mission.

I once called Bo 'son' and, as a pained father, I must sit while the integrations of lies absorb him. I am no different from any of you who perceive selves to be parents as the children go about tricks in evil gaming—we are all hurt and disappointed by the loss of the most tiny being. So be it.

Indeed, do you miss the lifeboat God sends while waiting for a rapture, a whisk-off, or a bloodbath either by Jesus or a planet at war? You had best check WITHIN—because you CANNOT PURCHASE A SINGLE THING FROM GOD!

DEDICATION

To all you who vacillate between recognition of TRUTH and those who search, seek and ponder. May you be given to see and find—IN TIME.

MISSING THE LIFEBOAT??

As you read the pages, especially the "Introduction: you are urged to ponder carefully the circumstances of your world and your SELF. More garbage is being flung against the teachers from Cod and the bringers forth of the words of instruction and guidance. You are moving rapidly into a time of chaos just as all your prophecies of all time have presented The enemy is at your door even as your "life-boat" awaits. How many of you will choose to WAIT for decisions until there are no more "saviors"? Each will choose for there will be no "snatch-up" of evil into glory—nopaid-for "trips" to anywhere of God and, as in the places of physical—YOU WILL DO IT! No one, not MAN nor GOD, will do it for you.

incidence of these diseases.

Well, the FDA won't have it and has proposed in a 163-page document (Federal Register 58:53254-53317) to ban not only any health claims for these supplements, but also books and scientific articles that attest to their benefits.

"Thus, if you pick up a reprint of an article in a health food store showing that vitamin E reduces heart attack risk by 48%, the FDA views this as labeling even though the article does not mention a specific product. What's more, the FDA then could confiscate all of the store's vitamin E, as well as vitamin E literature.

"I and others do not plan to let the FDA get away with this obvious violation of free speech and free press. I am the unpaid president of the American Preventive Medical Association (APMA), and along with three other groups, APMA has filed comments attesting to the illegality of FDA actions, and will be filing a pleading to block the FDA's intended actions.

WHISTLEBLOWERS

In an article from the Jan. 19 edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, The parliamentary report paper is yellowing with age, but Jim Smith treasures its contents as if they referred to events which happened yesterday. The text outlines his efforts to expose defense contracting irregularities that helped the United Kingdom government recover more than $1 million in over-paid profits and led to changes in contracting procedures that saved millions more.

'Smith' has little else to treasure. Identified as a whistleblower, he is now a corporate outcast because he used insider knowledge, gained as a director, to alert authorities to questionable practices at his company.

'When his allegations of excess profiteering from defense contracts were highlighted by the Public Accounts Committee in the mid-1980s he was hopeful of receiving some compensation and picking up the pieces of a shattered career.

'Today he is penniless, evicted from his home of 20 years, ostracized by companies that once courted his talents, ignored by a government that valued his help and all but forgotten by the professional bodies to which he belonged.

'I did what I knew to be professionally and ethically right.'

'Smith's' experience, though, is not untypical of whistleblowers. In perhaps the most famous example, Stanley Adams was awarded $200,000 pounds sterling compensation from the European Commission after he exposed illegal price-fixing by Hoffman La Roche. His whistleblowing led to a suspended one-year jail sentence under Swiss industrial espionage laws in 1976 after the suicide of his wife who had feared a much more severe sentence.

'According to a survey of 87 whistleblowers in the United States six years ago, some 17 percent of them lost their homes, 8 percent filed for bankruptcy, 15 percent filed for divorce and 10 percent attempted suicide.'

FDA & SEAFOOD

In an article from the Jan. 22 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, "The seafood industry will have to track fish from boat to dinner plate under new regulations that aim to prevent contamination and tens of thousands of food poisonings.

"The Food and Drug Administration regulations unveiled Friday are the first step of Clinton administration plans to make food safer and may provide a model for preventing tainted meat from reaching the public.

'About 9,000 Americans die every year from food poisoning, but no one knows how many are caused by tainted fish.'

FDA DIRTY TRICKS

In an article appearing in the Feb. 1994 edition of DR. JULIAN WHITAKER'S HEALTH & HEALING NEWSLETTER, "For any apologists of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) who think that this agency is trying to help out, their latest attempts to block truthful information on nutritional supplements should make you uncomfortable.

In December of 1992 the FDA was asked to evaluate and comment on the data showing how (1) dietary fiber and (2) antioxidants affect cancer; how (3) omega 3 fatty acids (fish oil supplements) and (4) antioxidants affect heart disease; and how (5) zinc affects the immune system. These five relationships were chosen as there is substantial evidence that these supplements reduce the

Clinton's legislative agenda for 1994

Highlights of the president's legislative agenda and its prospects for passing through Congress:

Health

Proposal: Wants to provide health insurance for all, proposes that employers pay for 80% of worker premiums, with employees paying the rest. Prospects: Insiders predict significant legislation but not sweeping reforms Clinton wants.

Crime

Proposal: Wants to put 100,000 more police on streets, expand boot camps for young offenders, ban assault weapons and guns for minors, stiffer sentences for repeat offenders. Prospects: Congress likely to approve that and more.

Welfare

Proposal: Expected to propose bill requiring that welfare recipients get jobs after two years of benefits in new program that would provide education, job training. Prospects: Likely to be delayed because of health care.

Jobs

Proposal: Wants "re-employment system," setting up training and placement programs for those without jobs, in addition to unemployment benefits. Prospects: Good for job training for workers displaced by foreign trade.

Budget

Proposal: Opposes Balanced Budget Amendment and a drive to slash $109 billion from federal spending over five years. Prospects: Clinton should prevail, but fighting deficits remains widely popular.

Campaign finance

Proposal: Clinton favors plan that would provide public funding to candidates who comply with spending limits. Prospects: Congressional insiders expect little meaningful reform.

Education reform

Proposal: Grants to states for school improvement, voluntary national goals, standards, tests. House passed a bill, now before Senate. Prospects: Congress likely to provide more school aid; fight expected over more aid to poor districts.

Environment

Proposal: Favors changes in drinking water law giving state, local governments more flexibility; wants EPA standards for only the most hazardous drinking water contaminants. Prospects: Senate bill like Clinton's plan, but House bill may include health care issues, possibly delaying action.

NEO-NAZI FILM

In an article from the Dec. 19 edition of the SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER, written by Erik Kirschbaum, BERLIN—"An unexpected outcry over a film about neo-Nazis, made partly with public money, has stunned its makers, who intended to demonstrate the seamy side of right-wing extremism in Germany.

"The distributors of the documentary Profession: Neo-Nazi, under pressure from public prosecutors, have withdrawn the film but may re-release it soon.

"In its most chilling scene, neo-Nazi Bela Ewald Althans approaches a group of Jewish tourists visiting a gas chamber at the Auschwitz death camp in Poland and tells them it wasn't used for killing Jews. The blond, baby-faced rightist tells the visitors in broken English it is nonsense that Jews were killed there.

"The tourists are left speechless. Critics say the film spreads unfiltered Nazi propaganda that could easily mislead viewers into believing it glorifies right-wing extremism.

"Germany's Jewish community called on public prosecutors to take legal action against Althans for using in the film the creation of new Nazi regime and for calling Auschwitz a lie—both criminal acts in Germany.

"Postwar Germany passed laws making it illegal to display swastikas, to deny the Holocaust took place or make anti-Semitic or racist statements.

"The public prosecutor's office in Frankfurt said the film violated German laws because it allowed extremists to make unchallenged anti-Jewish statements.

"The film is unsuitable without additional explanation. The neo-Nazi is left with the last word."

"The film is a horror," said Ignatz Bubis, chairman of Germany's Central Council of Jews. "It's pure Nazi propaganda."

"Director Winfried Bonengel defends his film as a portrait of neo-Nazis as they really are."

CELL KEY

In an article from the Jan. 20 edition of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS (COLORADO), "British cancer researchers report discovering a gene that controls cell division, which runs amok in many forms of cancer. In a study published by the journal Nature, scientists working for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund said they had pinpointed a gene responsible for cell division in yeast. The gene is known as rum1, which stands for replication uncoupled from mitosis. Mitosis is normal cell division in which DNA, the basic genetic building block, is completely reproduced in the nucleus of a healthy, new cell. Researchers found that when they took the rum1 gene away from cells, the cells lost control and reproduced themselves before DNA had been properly duplicated. Premature mitosis is believed by some scientists to be a mistake that is programmed into some cancer cells."

WHERE THEY CALLED HOME

PLUTONIUM REVIEW

In an article from the Jan. 15 edition of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS, written by Katie Kerwin: "Sen. Ben Nighthorse Campbell and environmentalists Friday called for an independent investigation to determine whether plutonium is missing from Rocky Flats."

"The call came after the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS reported that congressional investigators believe millions of dollars in property is missing and may have been stolen from the plant.

"We've got to find out where the buck stops," said Campbell, a Colorado Democrat. "Somebody is very lax with security out there."

"The inherent security is probably much tighter on the plutonium than it is on the other things," said Campbell. Still, he wants the DOE to review whether any plutonium was ever smuggled out of the plant, lost or stolen."

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, "The manager of Rocky Flats has agreed to release more information about plutonium at the site.

"An independent assessment of the amount of plutonium stored at the former nuclear weapons plant will be allowed, manager Mark Silverman said.

"We are willing to open our books to a third party," he said.

"Despite the policy of more openness, much information on Rocky Flats remains classified, Silverman said.

"An estimated 14.2 tons of plutonium is stored at Rocky Flats. An additional 1,300 pounds is in eight buildings and 4.2 miles of duct work. The total amounts to almost 40 percent of the Energy Department's declassified plutonium inventory."

PLUTONIUM & PLUTO

In an article from the Jan. 21 edition of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, written by Quentin Hardy, TOKYO—"Drink your plutonium, it's good for you.

A Japanese nuclear-power lobby is spreading the word that, when used properly, plutonium isn't dangerous but down-right friendly.

"The Power Reactor and Nuclear Fuel Development Corp. has decided to tell its story through a cartoon mascot, Reliable Friend Little Pluto. A rosy-cheeked little guy, wearing a snug helmet with the initials Pu (plutonium's unfortunate periodic symbol), Pluto stars in a promotional video intended to allay fears about dangerous, unstable elements.

"Little Pluto wants to talk turkey about the dangers of plutonium exposure. 'It's a misunderstanding,' says the diminutive particle emitter. 'People think I'm a cause of cancer. Plutonium isn't like cyanide, where just a little bit can kill you.'

"Little Pluto is certainly generating a lot of heat among Japan's anti-nuclear activists. The video is absurd; plutonium is a deadly poison," says Kiyoshi Yoshimura, of the Tsuruga Citizen's Group That Protests Against Construction of the Fast-Breeder Reactor.

"Trust Me."

"Mr. Yoshimura doesn't. 'Very unscientific,' said the protester. 'I think a lot more people will be suspicious about plutonium after this.'"

RADIATION & REAGAN

In another article from the same edition of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS, written by H. Josef Herbert: "Former President Reagan's energy secretary says Cold War radiation tests on humans, divulged by Congress in the mid-1980s, were 'not up on the screen' as a high priority for his agency.

"Energy Department documents show the Reagan administration sought to play down the experiments, arguing against compensation or follow-up exams for the human subjects.

"The department argued there was no scientific reason to believe the subjects suffered long-term harm and that follow-up studies would 'violate privacy,' according to documents obtained by Associated Press.

NUCLEAR TESTING

In an article from the Jan. 22 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, written by John Fleck: "Los Alamos National Laboratory has asked the Clinton administration to consider permitting underground test explosions using nuclear materials but without creating a true nuclear blast, laboratory director Sig Hecker said Friday.

"The possibility of the tests has raised some concerns in the arms control community because of fears they might hurt efforts toward an international ban on all nuclear weapons test blasts.

"The new tests would be conducted at the Department of Energy's Nevada Test Site, not at Los Alamos, Hecker said."

RUSSI COOPERATION

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, written by John Fleck: "The heads of the United States' and Russia's oldest nuclear weapons laboratories signed a $6 million agreement Monday to cooperate on civilian research.

"The three-year deal calls for the U.S. government to provide funding that Russian officials said will provide employment for more than 1,000 scientists who used to work on nuclear weapons.

"Los Alamos National Laboratory Director Sig Hecker and his counterpart, Vladimir Belugin of the former Soviet Union's Arzamas-16 laboratory, signed the agreement at a ceremony Monday morning in Los Alamos.

"The cooperative research projects were set up to take advantage of complimentary skills the two labs share..."

NUCLEAR WARHEADS

In an article from the Jan. 15 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, MOSCOW—"Senior Russian generals, pressing for early fulfillment of an arms treaty brokered by President Clinton last week, said Tuesday that nuclear warheads in Ukraine are decaying and becoming increasingly dangerous.

"Col. Gen. Yevgeny Maslin, chief of nuclear systems in the main directorate of the Defense Ministry, warned that Ukraine's facilities are overloaded and its nuclear weapons are not being properly maintained.

"Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk agreed during a meeting Friday with Clinton and Russian President Boris Yeltsin to ship Ukraine's nuclear weapons to Russia for dismantling."

MISSING PATIENTS

Again, from the Jan. 15 edition of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS, "Veterans Affairs hospitals conducted about 7,000 searches for missing high-risk patients during a two-year period, according to a government report that urged greater surveillance of such patients. The Government Accounting Office report said most of the patients eventually were found unharmed, but 34 were found dead, 19 were injured, and 25 remained unaccounted for nine months later. The GAO, an investigative wing of Congress, said its staff visited five VA medical centers and found none 'is taking sufficient steps to preclude high-risk patients from leaving their treatment settings without the knowledge and approval of cognizant staff.' The study, conducted between Oct 1990 and Sept. 1992, concluded that 39 of the Veterans Affairs Department's 158 medical centers have significant problems with unauthorized patient departures."

WHITEWATER TIMETABLE

■ 1978 — Whitewater Development Corp. formed by the Clintons with Arkansas friend and political ally James McDougal and his wife to invest in 230 acres of land in Arkansas' Ozarks Mountains resort region.

■ 1984-85 — The Clintons deduct on their income tax returns over $5,000 in interest payments on bank loan payments made for them by Whitewater. They later acknowledge the deductions were improper. But they do not repay the estimated $1,000 in tax savings since the error occurred more than three years earlier, leaving them no longer liable for the taxes under law.

■ 1985 — McDougal helps Clinton pay off a $50,000 debt from his last campaign for re-election as Arkansas governor. The money was loaned to the campaign by Clinton himself. Federal investigators later question whether McDougal diverted depositors' funds from his Little Rock, Arkansas-based Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan Association to help erase the debt.

■ 1989 — A failing Madison is seized by the government at a cost to taxpayers of more than $47 million. McDougal is indicted on fraud charges in connection with Madison. He is acquitted in 1990.

■ March 7, 1992 — Clinton's complicated ties to Whitewater and McDougal are first reported in The New York Times. A day later, Clinton tells reporters he and his wife lost more than $25,000 in the joint venture. "There was no impropriety," he says.

■ 1992 — Clinton's presidential campaign reports what it calls an independent report by a Denver accounting firm concluded that Whitewater was a losing investment for the Clintons, who did nothing improper.

■ July 20, 1993 — White House Deputy Counsel Vincent Foster, an old friend of the Clinton's from Little Rock, commits suicide.

■ Dec. 20, 1993 — White House discloses for the first time that Clinton's Whitewater files were removed from Foster's office on July 22 and turned over to Clinton's personal attorney, David Kendall.

■ Dec. 21, 1993 — Hillary Rodham Clinton describes Whitewater as nothing more than a bad real estate investment that ended in a $69,000 personal loss for her and her husband and questions why the media remain interested in the matter.

■ Dec. 22, 1993 — Republican Rep. Jim Leach of Iowa calls on Attorney General Janet Reno to name a special prosecutor to investigate Whitewater. Reno later rejects the call.

■ Dec. 23, 1993 — White House says it is voluntarily turning over to the Justice Department all documents relating to Whitewater. It later discloses it is doing so under a negotiated subpoena that effectively seals the documents in secrecy.

■ Jan. 9, 1993 — Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York becomes the first congressional Democrat to join Republicans in asking for a special prosecutor.

■ Jan. 12, 1993 — Clinton directs that Reno be asked to name a special counsel to investigate Whitewater and she says she will seek one. They act after House and Senate Republicans say they will ask that a special congressional committee be set up to investigate.

RELIGION

In an article from the JOHNSON CITY PRESS (JOHNSON CITY, TENNESSEE), written by John Newland: 'Religion is vitally important to many Americans, but religion and journalism scholars agree the subject is poorly covered by the media.'

'While most U.S. newspapers have a religion section, only 67 have full-time religion writers, according to The Freedom Forum First Amendment Center at Vanderbilt University.'

'And TV news generally hasn't touched the subject unless the story was sensational — the standoff and fire last year at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas, for example.'

'Studies indicate the lack of coverage bothers clergy, and perhaps a majority of readers and viewers.'

'According to a report published last year by Harvard University's Nieman Foundation, which examines journalism issues and ethics, newspaper readers are less satisfied with coverage of religion than any major topic.'

'Milligan College journalism professor Terry Mattingly, who has studied religion in journalism for several years, said he thinks coverage is wholly inadequate.'

'Thousands of people spend millions of dollars each week on sports events, yet millions of people spend billions of dollars each week on religious causes,' Mattingly said. 'But compare the coverage of sports and the coverage of religion and see what you find.'

'There are several theories about the media's perceived aversion to religion coverage.'

'Some, including Mattingly, think reporters and editors are generally irreligious.

'But most everyone concedes there is a shortage of writers who are qualified to cover religion.'

RECLAIM AMERICA FOR CHRIST

In an article from the Jan. 22 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 'Some of the nation's most influential conservative Christian leaders will be in South Florida this weekend for an unusual forum designed to inspire and teach 2,000 potential activists how to change the schools and influence politics.'

'Eighteen conservative Christian leaders are scheduled to speak at the conference to Reclaim America for Christ'

'The conference has angered many gays and liberals, who resent conservative Christians' efforts to instill their values in society.'

HOLY TREKKIE

In the same edition, RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA—'It may not wind up in a hotel night-stand drawer. It likely will find a home on the shelves of Star Trek buffs.'

'A group of scholars is translating the Bible into the language of Klingons, the rough, war-like warriors of the science-fiction TV series and movies.'

'...the Bible will supplement a Klingon dictionary created by linguist Marc Okrand.'

'In 1984, Paramount Studios hired Okrand to develop Klingon into a full-fledged language for Star Trek III: The Search for Spock.'

'One problem so far: There is no Klingon word for or concept of God. Shoulson [translator] used the word joH's, Klingon for Great Lord'

'Here is the King James version of John 3:16: 'For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.'

'And the Klingon version: 'toH qo' muSHa'pu'qu'mo'joH'a', wa'puqloDDaj nobpu' ghaH 'ej ghaH-baq Harchugh vay', vaj not Hegh ghaH, 'ach yln jub ghajbeh ghaH.'

'The finished product will be called the Klingon Authorized Version.'

TIME STANDS STILL

In an article from the Jan. 25 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, LONDON—'The chimes of Big Ben fell silent for three hours when the clock atop the Houses of Parliament stopped mysteriously for the second time in eight months.'

'A spokeswoman said the clock stopped at 6:20 p.m. Sunday and was started again at 9:30 p.m. as a repair crew from the clockmaker Thwaites and Reed worked on it. She said it was not known what caused the clock to stop.'

'On May 19, the clock stopped for about three hours and then started on its own while clockmakers were trying to figure out why it stopped.'

'Strictly speaking, the name Big Ben applies only to the big bell that sounds the hour, but it has become the nickname for the whole clock. Named after Sir Benjamin Hall, a government works commissioner, Big Ben first sounded on May 31, 1859.

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, TEL AVIV—"Psychic Uri Geller claimed Tuesday he made Big Ben, Britain's most famous clock, stand still for three hours Sunday until clockmakers got it going again. At the time, Geller said, he was in his native Israel watching the shooting of a movie about his life. A journalist, commenting on a scene depicting Geller stopping a clock, suggested he order Big Ben to halt, the psychic said. 'It was almost as a joke. But I said to myself stop while concentrating on the clock...in the morning suddenly I heard CNN announce that Big Ben stopped mysteriously. I was shocked.'

EARTH'S OUTER LIMITS

Probing Earth's outer limits

In the first U.S. mission to the moon in two decades, the spacecraft Clementine, scheduled for launch Tuesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., will spend two months taking detailed images of the moon, encounter the near-Earth asteroid Geographos, then drift off forever into space.

GRAVITY PROBE-B

In an article appearing in the Jan. 1994 edition of LOCKHEED TODAY, written by Buddy Nelson, "Lockheed Missiles & Space Company (LMSC) has been chosen by Stanford University and the National Aeronautics & Space Administration to build a spacecraft that will carry the Gravity Probe-B relativity experiment.

"The $100-million contract, which will culminate in a launch of the sophisticated probe in the year 1999, will attempt to experimentally verify Albert Einstein's Theory of General Relativity. Einstein's revolutionary surmise was that gravity was not a force, but rather an effect dependent upon our frame of reference.

Gravity Probe-B is a physics experiment devised in the 1960s at Stanford University. It will measure tiny changes in the directions of spin of four gyroscopes in a satellite flying 400 miles high in a polar orbit, The gyros will be so free of disturbances that they provide an almost perfect space-time reference system. They are coupled to a telescope that will sight on Rigel, a bright star in Orion.

"The gyroscopes will attempt to measure how space and time are warped by the presence of Earth, and how Earth's rotation drags space-time around with it.

"Space-time is a concept put forth in 1915 by Albert Einstein in his Theory of General Relativity. The theory describes gravity, modifying rules laid down several hundred years ago by Isaac Newton, the first to spell out how gravity works. Newton believed gravity was an example of a 'force at a distance,' reaching instantaneously across space to affect all bodies.

"Einstein said space, time, and matter are not independent of each other, as Newton had assumed. Instead, Einstein said space, time, and matter merge into a continuum, which he called space-time. Space-time curves around massive bodies such as stars and planets. While the Theory of General Relativity is widely accepted by physicists today, it has never been tested to their complete satisfaction.

"Science never totally accepts its own laws and theories—even those of Einstein—as indisputable fact. Scientists perpetually devise new tests of existing theories and laws to make sure they are correct. The experiments conducted so far to test General Relativity are judged to be incomplete and uncertain. The effects that Stanford University physicists will measure with Gravity Probe-B are minute, but will investigate previously unverified aspects of the theory.

"...in mid-1999, the free-flying Gravity Probe-B will be lofted into orbit from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California."

LOW IQ

In an article appearing in the Jan. 25 edition of THE MODESTO BEE, SAN FRANCISCO—"A girl with a 44 IQ is entitled to be placed in a regular school class in Sacramento, based on findings that she could learn academic and social skills without disrupting the class, a federal appeals court ruled Monday.

"The ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was called 'a tremendous victory for disabled kids,' by a lawyer for the parents of the 11-year-old Rachel Holland.

"The district's lawyer could not be reached for comment."

TALKS OF PEACE

In an article from the Jan. 28 edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, written by Julian O'zanne: "In a rare display of Israeli political consensus on the Middle East peace process, leaders across the political spectrum yesterday welcomed the announcement by King Hussein of Jordan that he is ready publicly to meet Mr. Yitzhak Rabin, the Israeli prime minister.

"The prospect of growing economic and political contacts with neighboring Jordan before a formal peace treaty will bolster the domestic political standing of Mr. Rabin in face of growing public opposition to territorial and security concessions to the Palestinians and Syria.

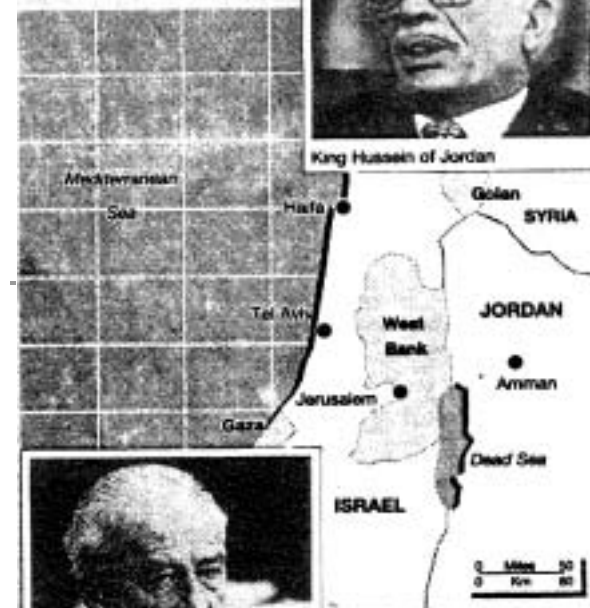

"Mr. Shimon Peres, Israeli foreign minister, said the time had come 'to legitimize public peace with Jordan.'

"Israeli leaders have been delighted with the king's statements in the United States this week where he has outlined a vision of peace with Israel."

"The talents that are available, the resources that are available, the opportunities that are available I believe will transform the entire region."

"Israel is ready for peace and willing to take risks and make dramatic decisions...We are looking for a peace that would last for generations to come."

MORE GENETICS

In an article from the Jan. 27 edition of THE MODESTO BEE, NORFOLK, VA—"A baby who was tested when she was only eight cells old to ensure that she would be free of the deadly Tay-Sachs disease was born Wednesday. She is the first child to be screened for the incurable disease as a pre-embryo, a doctor said.

"Brittany was tested as an eight-cell pre-embryo that had not yet been implanted into her mother's womb. Doctors used a needle one-fifth as wide as a human hair to withdraw a single cell from each of the eggs that were fertilized in vitro, or outside the mother, Dr. Gary D. Hodgen, leader of the team that performed the procedure."

NEW FED VICE-CHAIR

In an article appearing in the Feb. 2 edition of the ANTELOPE VALLEY DAILY NEWS (CALIFORNIA), written by John D. McClain, WASHINGTON—"David W. Mullins Jr.'s resignation from the Federal Reserve Board gives President Clinton a second opportunity to name a central bank governor and influence its monetary policy-making decisions.

"Mullins, 47, said Tuesday he is resigning as Fed vice chairman effective Feb. 14, just five days after Wayne D. Angell's departure from the seven-member board of governors.

"Clinton is believed to have chosen economist George Perry of the Brookings Institution as Angell's successor. Some observers believe Clinton will appoint Perry to the number 2 position under Chairman Alan Greenspan."

FEDERAL RESERVE AUTHORITY

In an article from the Jan. 19 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, The Federal Reserve is facing a three-pronged political attack that some analysts worry could distract the central bank from its job of keeping monetary policy on track.

"Democrats in Congress and the Clinton administration are seeking to curtail the Fed's powers—challenging its regulatory authority, the makeup of its board and the confidential nature of its proceedings.

"Economists say the central bank could anger its adversaries by tilting interest rates higher and fighting inflation.

"But if the Fed delays a rise in interest rates in order to placate its critics, it could risk overheating the economy and threaten its credibility in the credit markets.

"In the face of the pressure, many analysts expect the Fed to do the right thing and set monetary policy in relation to the ebb and flow of the economy..."

What totally controlled party-line disinformation.

TSUNAMI

In an article from the Jan. 24 edition of the PORTLAND PRESS HERALD (OREGON), 'A powerful and unusual tsunami-like wave struck the Maine coast earlier this month, surging and crashing into harbors scores of miles apart.

"The wave battered boats, tossed crates of lobster and dragged moorings that weighed thousands of pounds.

"Around noon on Jan. 4, the wave struck Boothbay Harbor, Tenants Harbor, Belfast, Orland, Castine, Bass Harbor, Lamoine, Corea and possibly other ports.

"Joseph Kelley, a geologist with the Maine Geological Survey, is writing a proposal to the National Sea Grant program to study the phenomenon.

"What appeared to happen is that the water level rose abnormally high, then suddenly drained from the harbors.

"The draining effect was followed by a huge, crashing wave."

CLINTON HEALTH PLAN

In a brief article appearing in the Jan. 11 edition of WORLD NEWS DIGEST, "Clinton's new health care plan contains an iron-fisted enforcement provision that could cost many people their property, according to the RESEARCHREPORT. The plan requires everyone to choose an 'insurance plan' from among several offered by a Regional health Alliance. If someone doesn't choose a plan, one will be assigned by him by the Alliance. Then, if he doesn't pay his insurance premium, his property can be confiscated in payment. This claim against his property will supersede those of all other private creditors. Thus, those who refuse to take part in the health plan due to its abortion-funding provisions (or any other reason) will be destroyed economically (AMERICAN INFORMATION NEWSLETTER 11/93)."

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of the JOHNSON CITY PRESS, written by Deepak Sharma, BAGRIAN, INDIA—"Four women have been hiding for nearly a month in a barn behind a farmhouse in a Punjab village, ashamed to show their faces.

"They're afraid of how their families will react, now that their foreheads have been tattooed with the word pickpocket.

"And they fear police retaliation, since they went to a court seeking compensation for plastic surgery to remove the brand they say was made by police.

"It would have been better if they had shot

RUSSIA

In an article from the Jan. 25 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, MOSCOW—"Russia reported a $14.7 billion trade surplus for 1993 Monday, up from $5.3 billion in 1992, but the figure was far below earlier estimates, and Western economists said it could be grossly exaggerated.

"Central Bank officials claimed a surge in imports late last year had not been fully reported."

THE CITADEL

In an article from the Jan. 19 edition of the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS, "The Citadel's last defense against women in day classes crumbled Tuesday when Chief Justice William Rehnquist cleared the way for Shannon Faulkner to take courses with the military college's cadets.

"At The Citadel, where the cadet corps has been all-male for 151 years, the news was met with disappointment.

"The Citadel and Virginia Military Institute are the nation's only all-male state-supported military colleges."

In an article from the Jan. 25 edition of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, "A unanimous Supreme Court ruled Monday that protesters who block access to abortion clinics or in other ways conspire to stop women from having abortions may be sued as racketeers.

"The decision, which could threaten Operation Rescue and other groups that oppose abortion with financial ruin, also allows federal courts to order a halt to illegal protests at clinics.

"Although focused only on interpreting a federal anti-racketeering law, the decision is a big victory for the National Organization for Women and the Clinton administration.

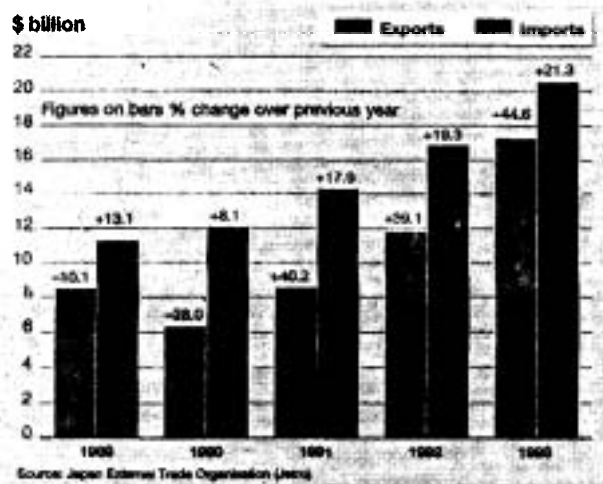

"Randall Terry of Operation Rescue reacted bitterly to the ruling.

"The Supreme Court has told civil protest to go to hell,' he said. 'This is a vulgar betrayal of over 200 years of tolerance towards protest and civil disobedience. The iron heel of government now will be used to crush dissent.' "

YASSIR ARAFAT

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, written by Roger Matthews, "Mr. Yassir Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, left Saudi Arabia yesterday after a two-day visit which marked the first thaw in relations between the two sides since the PLO support for Iraq in the Gulf war.

"The Saudis have demanded an apology from those Arab states and organizations which failed to rally to the support of the Gulf states following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. We cannot forgive, and we cannot forget,' said a senior Saudi official recently. 'But there are two things in this world which you cannot escape, and they are families and neighbors.'

"It was always expected that at some time Mr. Arafat, as part of the Arab family, would again be received in Saudi Arabia. But officials have also made clear that the PLO could not expect any further direct financial support, one of the main objectives of Mr. Arafat's visit to the kingdom."

RAFSANJANI

In another article from the same edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, "Iran's president said yesterday economic co-operation between the 10 Islamic members of the Economic Co-operation Organization in the Middle East and central Asia could reduce political tensions affecting them, Reuter reports from Tehran.

"President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani was opening a meeting of the foreign ministers of the 10 states that include Pakistan, Turkey, Afghanistan and six former Soviet republics.

"ECO was founded by neighbors Turkey, Iran and Pakistan in the 1950s as a regional trading bloc but was largely dormant until it was expanded two years ago to become the largest non-Arab Islamic organization from Europe to China.

"Iran's President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani is facing mounting criticism at home as the economy continues to suffer from weak international oil prices.

"President Rafsanjani recently attempted to play down the economic crisis by saying that Iran could continue with its development programs regardless of oil prices.

"But the bravado cannot mask the real economic problems the country faces."

PHONE LINES

In an article from the Dec. 29 edition of the MONTGOMERY COUNTY OBSERVER (PENNSYLVANIA), "Caller-identification devices can be put on telephone lines in Pennsylvania because of a law Gov. Robert Casey signed Wednesday.

"Customers must be given the no-cost option of blocking their numbers from being displayed when they place calls.

"The state Supreme Court ruled last year that unblockable caller ID services violate state wiretapping laws."

VENICE

In an article in the Jan. 23 edition of the JOHNSON CITY PRESS, written by David Mazie, VENICE, ITALY—"Along the Grand Canal, once-glorious Renaissance palaces are boarded up or hidden behind scaffolding and signs explaining that they are in restauro—under restoration.

"This city, once known as 'La Serenissima', is no longer 'most serene'. Its unique character—fear its very existence—is threatened.

"'Venice has changed. It is no longer the place I knew,' says Count Alvise Zorzi, who grew up in Venice and has written its history and has been at the forefront of efforts to preserve it.

"Each time I return, I feel happy because I'm back to my roots,' explains the 71-year-old historian, whose family ties to Venice go back nearly 1,000 years.

"The problems that trouble Zorzi and Venice-lovers everywhere include a shrinking population, an uncontrolled tourist invasion and the ravages of nature.

"Zorzi sums up their impact: 'This was once a living city. Now it's like a holiday resort, and its future is in danger.'

"Ironically, during the past half-cen- tury or so, two elements that shaped Venice—the Adriatic Sea and foreign visitors—have become the sources of many of its troubles.

"Built on piles driven into the center of a crescent-shaped lagoon, Venice is disrupted regularly by high tides and floods that weaken the foundations of residences and historic buildings and leave low-lying areas like St. Mark's Square under water.

"But it is the tides of tourists that are causing much of the concern these days.

"Venice attracts an average of 20,000 visitors a day, more than 7 million a year.

"Much of the city is shabby, in constant disrepair.

"Reversing damage done by decades of neglect will require more money and less politics. A push is being made for a single governing authority in place of Venice's local-regional-national system."

LOUIS FARRAKWAN

In an article from the Feb. 4 edition of the DENVER POST, written by Robert Jackson, "Chastened by expressions of disapproval from the Congressional Black Caucus and the U.S. Senate, nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan suspended a top aide yesterday for making what he called 'repugnant' and 'mean-spirited' remarks about Jews.

"But the controversial black leader modified his rebuke of Kha-lid Abaul Muhammad by insisting: 'I stand by the truths that he spoke.' He then accused the Jewish Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and Vice President Al Gore—both of whom had criticized Muhammad's remarks—as anti-black.

"Farrakhan's announcement came a day after the Senate condemned the remarks in a unanimous resolution and the caucus publicly backed away from a 'sacred covenant' of cooperation it recently entered with the Nation of Islam.

"The Anti-Defamation League called attention to the comments and condemned Farrakhan in an ad in THE NEW YORK TIMES."

ROCKET SLED

In an article from the Jan. 23 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, written by Eduardo Montes, HOLLOWMAN AIR FORCE BASE—"A rocket sled designed to set a new world land speed record fell short of its mark after shooting off its test track, but researchers won't know why for months.

"The unmanned sled streaked down the track trailing reddish-orange fire Friday evening, outrunning sound itself as it hit about 6,000 mph before derailing."

SUPREME COURT SECURITY

In an article from THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY OBSERVER (PENNSYLVANIA), WASHINGTON—"Supreme Court justices have used the court's security force to provide taxi service for visiting relatives, work overtime at wedding receptions and push supermarket carts.

* Such assignments sparked deep resentment and led to a policy aimed at curtailing abuses, the AP has learned.

* Reports of using government provided guards for personal errands occur from time to time elsewhere in government.

* As for the Supreme Court justice's use of court police officers as drivers, House [court spokeswoman] said the practice was justified.

* "This is what the Supreme Court police get paid to do, protect the building and the justices. They signed up to provide personal security for these nine people," she said.

* She said the federal law aimed at protecting the justices does not limit the use of court police officers to instances of official court business."

TEST BAN TREATY

In an article from the Jan. 26 edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, written by Frances Williams, * Formal United Nations negotiations began yesterday on a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty, now supported in principle by all five declared nuclear weapons states. The treaty, which could be ready in two to three years, is seen by western governments as an important part of efforts to prevent nuclear weapons proliferation after the Cold War.

* The talks are being handled by an ad hoc committee of the U.N. Conference on Disarmament, which has 37 members including the nuclear weapons states—the United States, Russia, China, Britain and France."

RANDY WEAVER

In an article from the Jan. 28 edition of THE DES MOINES REGISTER, BONNERS FERRY, IDAHO—"An Idaho prosecutor says he's considering bringing homicide charges against the FBI sniper who killed Vicki Weaver, the wife of white-separatist Randy Weaver, in a 1992 shootout in the remote mountains of northern Idaho.

The sniper, Ron Horiuchi, is one of at least five federal officials under scrutiny by Boundary County Prosecutor Randall Day.

* 'Mr. Horiuchi is a suspect,' Day said.

* Day also said he's considering state homicide charges against Weaver and Kevin Harris, a drifter who was living at the Weaver family mountain compound, in connection with the death of Deputy U.S. Marshal William Degan.

* According to U.S. Justice Department documents, Day has a possible new witness to help him charge Hams and Weaver with killing Degan.

* James Radler, 31, who says he shared a jail cell with Harris for a week in the fall of 1992, told the U.S. Marshals Service that Harris said he shot Degan without warning or provocation.

* Harris' lawyers conceded at trial that Harris killed Degan, but they convinced the jury that he fired in self defense.

* Day also said he's weighing homicide charges against Deputy U.S. Marshals Arthur Roderick and Larry Cooper. They participated in the August 1992 shootout at Weaver's cabin that left Degan and Weaver's 14-year-old son, Samuel, dead.

* He said he is considering charging two top FBI officials, Assistant Director Larry Potts and Richard Rogers, commander of the Hostage Rescue Team, who relaxed the FBI's rules of engagement after Degan was killed. This action suspended the rule stating that no one can be killed unless they pose a 'clear and imminent danger' to an agent's or another's life, he said, and the agents were told they could shoot any armed male found outside the compound.

* It was after this order that Horiuchi fired the shot that killed Vicki Weaver.

* Horiuchi's superiors at the FBI wouldn't comment on Day's investigation, and attempts to reach Horiuchi were unsuccessful."

FBI DIRECTOR

In an article from the Jan. 21 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, written by Steve Goldstein, * Hoping to be better prepared for 'the next Waco,' the FBI director and a hand-picked cadre of senior agents this week began a three-day course of special tactical training at the bureau's academy in Virginia.

* This spring, the new team will be drilled in field exercises designed to simulate hostage-taking, airline hijackings and terrorist situations, FBI Director Louis J. Freeh said.

* The new training—and his own participation—is part of what Freeh said would be 'substantial changes' in the way the FBI tackles crises like the 51-day standoff with the Branch Davidian cult near Waco, Texas, which ended in April with the deaths of as many as 85 cultists."

PEDOPHILE U.N.

In an article from the Jan. 27 edition of THE MODESTO BEE (CALIFORNIA), * The United States should sharply reduce funds to the United Nations unless the international organization severs ties with a group that supports pedophilia, the Senate decided Wednesday.

* The 99-0 vote followed a move last summer by a U.N. agency, supported by the United States, to give consultative status to an international gay and lesbian group that includes as one of its members the North American Man Boy Love Association.

* A final vote on the State Department authorization bill, which authorizes more than $12 billion for the State Department and related agencies in 1994 and 1995, is expected in several days. The House passed its version of the bill last summer."

KGB & ISRAEL

In an article from the Jan. 27 edition of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, written by Allyn Fisher, JERUSALEM—"Stepping out of the shadows 20 years after being freed in a spy swap, former Soviet agent Yuri Linov revealed Wednesday that he had penetrated Israel's top secret nuclear laboratories.

* A lieutenant-colonel for the KGB, Linov was sent to Israel disguised as a Jewish immigrant from Austria in 1968. He even underwent circumcision in Moscow to protect his cover.

* For five years, Linov said, he operated a ring of agents, including informants inside Israel's nuclear reactors at Dimona in the Negev Desert and Nahal Sorek on the Mediterranean coast.

* He claimed he found out Israel was working on an atomic weapon but doesn't believe he broke any new ground."

ISRAELI HIGH COURT

In an article from the Jan. 29 edition of THE BAKERSFIELD CALIFORNIAN, JERUSALEM—"The Supreme Court granted Reform and Conservative rabbis their first-ever official status in Israel when it ruled rabbis from either movement must be allowed on municipal religious councils.

* In a related decision, the court recommended the government set up a commission that would examine how all wings of Judaism could maintain access to the Wailing Wall, Judaism's holiest site.

* The two decisions reflect the tension between the powerful Orthodox Jewish establishment and the Reform and Conservative movement, which the Orthodox dismiss because they deviate from the fundamental belief that the Bible is God's absolute word."

IRAN-CONTRA REF

In an article by Norman Kempster, appearing in the Jan. 19 edition of the LOVELAND REPORTER HERALD (COLORADO)—'In a scathing counterattack, former President Reagan and key officials of his administration denounced the final report of the Iran-Contra independent counsel Tuesday as 'fantasy...fiction...prosecutorial abuse' and the product of a Soviet-style inquisition.

* In an extraordinary 1,149-page volume, lawyers for Reagan, Bush, then-Attorney General Edwin Meese III and 43 other people named in Walsh's report delivered a near line-by-line rebuttal of the independent counsel's conclusions.

* Reagan's lawyers, in a separate 122-page analysis, said Walsh's conclusion 'is demonstrably incorrect.' The former president's attorney's said Walsh's theory of an administration-wide conspiracy to cover-up the scandal 'is nothing more than the independent counsel's fantasy.'

* Bush's lawyers said that he 'has always acknowledged that he was aware that arms were sold to Iran. The report offers nothing new on this issue.'

* Meese, accused by Walsh of conducting an investigation in November 1986 that 'was more of a damage-control exercise than an effort to find the fact,' called the report 'fraudulent and dishonest.'

* Perhaps the bitterest reaction came from former Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, who was pardoned by Bush just two weeks before he was scheduled to go on trial on charges of withholding evidence and misleading Congress.

* Weinberger's lawyer, Robert Bennett, said in a telephone interview that Walsh's report was 'essentially a work of fiction.'

IRAN-CONTRA SUMMARYWhat special prosecutor said about Iran-Contra

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Key findings of the report of independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh's investigation into the Iran-Contra scandal:

■ There was no evidence President Reagan broke laws. But Reagan "set the stage" for illegal activities of his aides. He ordered "in general terms" illegal efforts to aid the Contras. Reagan also authorized the illegal sale of arms to Iran in an effort to win release of American hostages in the Middle East.

■ White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan, Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger withheld information that would have given Congress a clearer idea of the scope of the scandal.

Contrary to his public statements. Vice President Bush "was fully aware of the Iran arms sale" and efforts to raise money for the Nicaraguan rebels from third countries. But there was no evidence that Bush broke any laws.

■ Several Reagan administration officials, including Regan, Shultz and Weinberger, systematically withheld a large volume of documents relevant to the investigation.

■ Attorney General Edwin Meese III falsely stated that Reagan did not know about a 1985 Hawk missile shipment to Iran at the time. Walsh considered prosecuting Meese in 1992 for making a false statement but concluded that the passage of time would make it difficult to prove the case.

get the Shultz resignation stories in shape.'

'Shultz, meanwhile, was telling aides that Bush 'is up to his ears in Iran' and that Bush was 'getting drawn into a web of lies,' according to one aide's notes. The whole thing crushes Bush...I don't think he can get elected now on his own.'

'CIA Director William Casey wanted Reagan to get rid of Shultz. Shultz wanted the president to fire Poindexter. Eventually, Poindexter was forced to resign and White House aide Oliver North was fired. Regan stepped down three months later for failing to control the political damage to the president.'

EXECUTIONS

In an article from the Jan. 31 edition of the (LONDON) FINANCIAL TIMES, written by Tony Walker, 'Dozens of alleged criminals have been put to death across China in what appears to be an attempt by the judicial authorities to clear their books before the Lunar New Year holiday, traditionally an occasion for family reunions.

'Reports over the past few days from Beijing, Guangzhou, Shanghai and elsewhere indicate a widespread campaign is under way to remind the populace of the severe penalties for a wide range of crimes.

'According to a recent report by an Australian human rights delegation, at least 55 offenses carry the death penalty.

"According to Amnesty International the number of executions annually has risen sharply since 1989, the year of the Tiananmen Square massacre. In 1989, 370 death sentences were imposed of which about two-thirds were carried out. By 1992 the figure had risen to 1,891 imposed and at least 1,079 carried out."

U.S. TROOPS & THE U.N.

In an article from the Jan. 27 edition of THE MODESTO BEE, 'U.S. troops would be barred from serving under United Nations commanders and would need congressional approval to join a U.N. peacekeeping mission, under legislation introduced Wednesday by Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole. Dole said his Peace Powers Act of 1994 was meant to avoid a repeat of American 'blunders' in Somalia, Bosnia, and Haiti."

JOINT MISSION

In an article from the Feb. 2 edition of the DENVER POST, written by Joseph Verrengia, 'A Russian cosmonaut will fly along-side astronauts for the first time when space shuttle Discovery blasts off Thursday.

'The eight-day mission, known as STS-60, will combine microgravity experiments and space engineering tasks, including the dramatic deployment and retrieval of the Wake Shield satellite.

'In 1991, Russia and the United States agreed to exchange astronauts for missions.'

PRAYER IN SCHOOL

In an article from the Jan. 15 edition of THE MODESTO BEE, JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI—The Mississippi House overwhelmingly approved a bill that would allow prayer in public schools, as long as the prayer was initiated by students."

MORE IRAN-CONTRA

In an article from the Jan. 23 edition of the JOHNSON CITY PRESS, written by Pete Yost, "As the Reagan White House plunged into the chaos of the Iran-Contra scandal, administration officials took care of the business at hand: They cut each other's throats and protected the president.

"A portrait of political disaster emerges from detailed notes of Vice President Bush, White House Chief of Staff Don Regan, aides to Secretary of State George Shultz and others—and the notes are quoted extensively in the final report of prosecutor Lawrence Walsh.

'Bush thought forced resignations would help quell the public uproar over the diversion of Iran arms sales money to the Contras, according to his tape-recorded diaries for Nov. 25, 1986.

'Regan should go, Shultz should go' and Reagan 'ought to get this all behind him in the next couple of months,' Bush confided to the president, according to the vice president's recollections which he dictated into a tape recorder.

'When Bush reported later that Regan had agreed to resign, 'The President was very, very pleased' and 'he thanked me about three times,' Bush told his diary. 'He was concerned that Don would walk in and see us talking, so I left after about 15 minutes.'

'Bush showed Reagan newspaper articles suggesting that Regan, Shultz and national security adviser John Poindexter 'are all out there with leaks and peddling their own line.' Bush said in his diary that he and Reagan 'talked about the need to

The Trial Of The Branch Davidians

CONTACT receives sporadic reports of the Branch Davidian trial going on in San Antonio, Texas. In the 1/25/94 issue of CONTACT, we outlined who the participants are in this trial [you might want to refer back]. Here we present for you a continued summarization of the trial information. As you've probably noticed, the controlled media is trying their very best to keep us in the dark or otherwise confuse the matter.

JANUARY 24, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Testimony proved that there was no possibility for a peaceful serving of the warrants. Furthermore, it destroyed the credibility of previous testimony which has been so artfully orchestrated by U.S. Attorney Roy Jahn who hoped to prove that the warning statements were made at the front door of the building. If the purpose was to serve warrants and conduct a search, then that call of notice and warning was required at every entry point. This could not be described as anything but a terroristic surprise attack on the peaceful Davidian home, with no alternative peaceful serving of the warrants permitted!

JANUARY 25, 1994 —
ORLANDO SENTINEL NEWSPAPER

* A federal agent testifying in the murder trial of 11 Branch Davidians Monday described how he climbed, wounded, to the roof of the cult compound during a cease-fire to retrieve bodies of slain colleagues.

* Agent Gerald Petrilli, under cross-examination, also defended the use of dozens of agents to raid the compound.

* Petrilli said after a cease-fire was reached with followers of David Koresh, he told other officers as he walked away from the compound, 'We need to go back and get our dead.'

* Under cross-examination, Petrilli said no one fired at the agents during the cease-fire. He defended the number of agents assigned to the raid as not being excessive, and like some of nine previous agents who testified, he said the element of surprise had been lost.

* Seventy-six officers poured out of cattle trailers that Sunday morning. About two dozen more were in nearby undercover houses, testimony has shown.

* 'Had you ever been on a raid where 76 agents stormed a house?' asked defense lawyer Dan Cogdell.

* 'No sir. But this, sir, is not a house,' Petrilli replied.

* 'What do you think it was to the people inside?' Cogdell asked.

* 'It may have been a home, sir,' the agent said.

* 'It was their home.' Cogdell said."

JANUARY 27, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

The following summary comes to us from Jack DeVault, Major, USAF (Ret.), with the Sons of Liberty.

* Week three of the trial in which a parade of 22 ATF agents have testified has not produced all that much incriminating evidence. There has been great confusion over who fired the first shot. There have been acknowledgements that the BATF heirarchy lied to the media. There has been evidence that the raid was poorly planned. There have been huge conflicts between the written reports and the testimony of the agents in the court (and the defense attorneys have been doing a good job of pointing these discrepancies out). There has been plenty of testimony that someone should have called off the raid before it got started. There has been a hint of collusion between the government attorneys and the raid planners before the raid, but this has not been proven. There has been lots of evidence that the witnesses have gone to school to be coached as witnesses, they seem to know more about testifying in court than they know about firearms. Perhaps most frustrating to the prosecution is the testimony which demonstrated that the BATF would not accept a peaceful entry to serve the arrest and search warrants. Special Agent Kenneth King explained that his team was to climb the roof, throw in a Flash Bang distraction device, and climb in the window and shoot anyone with a weapon. When he was asked what would have happened if David Koresh had come out the front door and invited them in, there wouldn't have been any change in plans. It was dynamic entry or nothing—And all this is from the government's own witnesses!"

JANUARY 31, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

The following comes to us from Thomas Cook, courtroom eyewitness:

'Agent William Dwight, 17 years ATF Dallas, observed the Mag Bag on March 8 when the Bradley fighting vehicle 'nudged', as he put it, a hole in the front of the building and in the back of it. He didn't like to refer to the Bradley as a tank. Asked by DeGuerin if he knew Gary Welch, the owner of the property, was there offering to open the place up with his key he said, 'I was at a house down the way observing. No.'

* Did you know he was arrested for creating a disturbance after they destroyed the entrances?' No.'

* 'Can you drive through a building with a tank because of a search warrant?'

* 'If we need to.'

* 'Don't you try to serve a search warrant as peaceful as possible,' Mike continued.

* 'Not necessarily, that is not our primary objective.'

FEBRUARY 1, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Again, from Thomas Cook:

* Victorine Hollingsworth, 'I believe now, David Koresh is false prophet. Livingston Fagan, Brad Branch, Jaime Castillo, Kevin Whitecliff, Clive Doyle all had guns! Were might men! Stood Guard! Brainwashed! Koresh means death! There was no conspiracy.'*

FEBRUARY 2, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

The following is written by Bonnie DeVault of San Antonio.

* The only reasonable issue is who attacked whom. The obfuscation of that issue by Janet Reno's prosecutors and her judge goes on and on. They continue to divert attention from the unprovoked raid on peaceful citizens by extraconstitutional federal police forces with the support of the U.S. Army and the Texas National Guard. They go about ignoring these real issues, and seek to prove only that a false prophet deceived a bunch of God-fearing people. They tend to ignore the fact that Koresh may have been crazy but he led his followers to a correct conclusion; i.e., that the federal government was their enemy and was going to attack them. Just as the government attacked Randy Weaver's religion and life style, they are replaying that tactic here.

* Kathy Schroeder's testimony today and Victorine Hollingsworth's of yesterday did indeed throw considerable mud at the government's target, but they have surely failed to prove that the Branch Davidians conspired to lure the ATF agents into an unprovoked ambush. Any reasonable juror is going to have to find that is what happened if they are to vote for a guilty verdict. One could only find pity for these witnesses, who in hindsight have exchanged their loyalty to Koresh for a carrot on the end of the government's stick. It is difficult indeed to find ultimate truth exposed in any courtroom. Truth now appears to be that politically correct friends of the government found a group of quiet reclusive religious people who failed to meet politically correct muster because they found the government oppressive. These religious people operated a legitimate gun business and accumulated a store of arms because they feared that oppressive government, and they were not willing to be walked on. When push comes to shove they believed that their home was their castle. (Now the rest of us may believe that too, but unless we are willing to stand up for the other guy who doesn't believe exactly the way we do, then when its our turn to be object of the government's oppression, there may be nobody left who doesn't think that the government really is God.)

* Kathy Schroeder's testimony indicated that Koresh was a bigamist who had taken her to wife; that some of those who died in the fire had possessed altered semi-automatic rifles to make them full automatic; that Koresh had taught his followers that these are 'the last days', which somehow permitted them to run up huge debt with credit cards, fraudulently obtained, because, after all, We won't be here anymore after 1994.' Weird! False teaching! Sinful! Also criminal if indeed these allegations are true. But nothing, nowhere, authorizes the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms to attack a group known to contain many innocent women and children in a dynamic entry raid with no possible means of avoiding injury to the innocent. Nothing the government throws into this trial, no mud slung at other issues, can in any way excuse the fact that the actions of the United States Government are the primary cause of all of this unnecessary loss of life, including its four dead mercenaries. Nothing has proven that those who were attacked did not simply respond in self-defense."

FEBRUARY 3, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

The following is written by Jack DeVault:
"Today's revelations included the fact that Scott Peterson, Kathy's [Schroeder] court appointed attorney had entered her not only into a plea bargain, but also into a movie rights contract in which he will garner a large portion of the profit. Kathy may have performed precisely as the prosecution wanted but she did not tell anything that would put a smoking gun in the hands of any defendant until after the raid started and it was clearly self-defense."

The next portion is written by Thomas Cook:
"I had reported two days ago that Vicki [Hollingsworth] said she had received $200,000 for her testimony..."

"She [Kathy Schroeder] was questioned about her plea agreement which includes a provision that the prosecutor is to make the decision on whether or not she has cooperated fully. If so, an exception to the sentencing guidelines for this level 43 offense, she pleaded guilty to impeding an officer with a deadly weapon while trying to serve a warrant, that carried a mandatory 10 year jail sentence can be moved by the prosecutor to dismissal. I didn't hear that the plea agreement included anything about getting her children.

"People from all over keep coming in. Ed Chandler, from Asheville, North Carolina arrived Tuesday, he spearheaded protests around the country about the Randy Weaver tragedy. Praying Ken Vardon can make it here, as well as Kenny Soule from Oregon.

"Word has it the prosecution will be through the end of next week and the defense now says they may take only a week instead of three."

FEBRUARY 4, 1994 —
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Again, from by Jack DeVault:

"I reported yesterday on some of Kathy Schroeder's testimony regarding the so-called suicide pact. In the context in which that testimony was given it sounded outrageous, but credible and discouraging. What kind of wild people are these Davidians? Well, last night Kevin Whitecliff called me from jail to chat about the day's events. When we got around to Kathy's testimony Kevin gave me some insights that are worth passing on to you. It's like Paul Harvey's The Rest of the Story, and we and the jury certainly were not allowed to hear it from the witness. What we heard was that there was a plan which developed in the days immediately following the raid for the survivors to walk out with David Koresh's dead body on a stretcher and with hand grenades ready to detonate. What we didn't hear was that this plan developed as a response to the FBI threat to attack with bombs and rockets. They expected to die or be translated! They were simply planning to try to control the conditions under which they would be killed. Not a treacherous plot to 'take out' their attackers, but believing Koresh was about

There had never been a plan for mass suicide! There was only the expectation that the ATF had blundered so badly that they would never be allowed to get out to tell the truth, and their home would not be left intact because it contained too much evidence which would indict the government."

While our readers are well aware that CONTACT never advocates the use of force, the following Davidian Trial-related fax was received on 2/3/94 and we share it for its historical perspective on just how far our country has slipped, in a short time, from the people controlling government to the opposite case.

RIGHT TO REPEL FORCE BY FORCE:

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE

'Citizens may resist unlawful arrest to the point of taking an arresting officer's life if necessary.' Plummer V. State, 135 Ind. 308 (1893).

This fundamental premise was upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of John Rad Elk V. U.S., 177 U.S. 529, (1900) when the court stated:

...where the officer is killed in the course of the disorder which naturally accompanies an attempted arrest that is resisted, the law looks with very different eyes upon the transaction when the officer had the right to make the arrest, from what it does if the officer had no right. What might be murder in the first case might be nothing more than manslaughter in the other, or the facts might show that no offense had been committed."

Perot Interview

On C-Span

Editor's note: We are assuming that most of you readers missed this dynamite, but little publicized, one-on-one interview between Ross Perot and cable TV's C-SPAN interviewer Brian Lamb. The setting was a quiet coffee shop in Texas. Mr. Perot was allowed to speak without interruption and very lucidly expressed an outline for action. Whether it remains a viable option for America's future this far into the funnel's neck is anybody's guess. One thing for sure though, Ross Perot makes some pointed, common sense statements which are well worth our time to consider.

The following is a transcription of an interview aired on the cable TV channel C-SPAN on the morning of 1/23/94.

Perot: The thing that swung the NAFTA vote was when they opened the Treasury and bought the votes! Just plain and simple! We don't feel that that's an appropriate use of taxpayers' money. That's the way it was done.

Brian: Would you do that debate again if the circumstances were the same?

Perot: Yes, but, I wouldn't be so naive. I would make sure we had a format where each speaker was not interrupted. I would make sure that it was a format where the moderator had agreed that we would talk about the NAFTA issue and not just tell folk stories.

Brian: Did you think Larry King did a bad job of it?

Perot: No, I didn't say that. I don't say that at all but I'm just saying we should have had a clear understanding that it was going to be a debate and not a variation of Crossfire.

Brian: Mort Myerson was quoted somewhere as saying that he'd known you for a long time and he had never seen you with that demeanor that night. Did something happen, did something click in at one time for you?

Perot: I don't know what. I have not heard that statement.

Brian: Bobby Inman. Do you know him?

Perot: Yes, Yes.

Brian: What happened?

Perot: I have no idea.

Brian: Did you see his news conference?

Perot: No.

Brian: Did you read about it?

Perot: Yes.

Brian: What was your reaction to what he said about columnists and Bob Dole and Bill Safire and things like that? You've been through that.

Perot: Well, it's a free society. Everybody is entitled to say whatever he wants to say and Admiral Inman—let's look at the facts and the records. Admiral Inman has a distinguished record. Admiral Inman is brilliant. He has made a 30 year major contribution to our country. I have no idea of what all the factors were that caused him to reach the conclusion that he did not want to be Secretary of Defense but I do think it's very important that everybody keep in perspective because this is not just a tricky game here. This is a man's reputation. This is a man who has contributed a great deal, 30 some-odd years, who is a fine citizen in our country. You'd have to find out from him what his thinking is because I don't know.

Brian: A couple of weeks ago the Clinton aides came out with statements like there's a cannibalism going on here in Washington and this was regarding things like the Whitewater case. Did you see those comments and do you agree that that's what goes on in Washington?

Perot: I didn't see the comments. I did see comments from the Whitehouse say of same, "Can't we at least have a truce during his mother's funeral?" I feel very strongly that that would have been appropriate, to not continue the barrage during a period of grief. But, let's just get past the way things ought to be and say this: that if you are involved in political activity, I think it's just part of it!

Brian: What about the Whitewater situation?

Perot: I don't know anything about it except what I read in the paper. I am concerned that every time one of these things comes up it's a huge distraction for months. I think we have a wonderful choice of special prosecutor based on what I read. I don't know Mr. Fiske personally, but it sounds like he is a fine person and will do a thorough and impartial job. But it will take months and this will be a distraction for months. We have work to do here in the country and I just regret that we have 'this major distraction but, I guess, under the circumstances it is being dealt with in the proper way.

Brian: Is anybody over-reacting in your opinion, either the press or...?

Perot: I don't know enough about it. All I know is what I read in the paper. It is not as though I know anything about Whitewater that everybody else doesn't know. I just don't know.

Brian: What are your instincts though in a society like this? Should we go after the President and his family like this?

Perot: I wouldn't, but that's just one person's opinion.

Brian: Why not?

Perot: Well, see, maybe I just don't know enough about Whitewater but, I think we can find something to have an extensive investigation about anybody, because no human being is perfect. If we want to run the country just totally focused on negative sensationalism then I'm afraid that we will diminish the effectiveness of our government, and I think

There are rules of war.
There are no rules in politics.

the people who contribute the most will not get near this whole process because it is so unattractive to a person's family. Forget the person, think of the family. I think part of Admiral Inman's message was he didn't like the idea of subjecting his family to all of this. You've excluded the most talented and able people in the country from public life because of the brutality (if that's the right word) of the process. We've hurt our country.

Brian: Assess the President's first year.

Perot: I don't do that. I leave that up to the American people.

Brian: Are we better off today than we were a year ago?

Perot: I'll let the American people decide. It's not my job to sit here and keep score.

Brian: You've been involved now for the United We Stand America Organization that was a year old January 11th.

Perot: Year old, yes. And I've been involved in public life now for about two years.

Brian: In those two years how do you assess your own involvement? What impact have you had in the last two years?

Perot: Well, time will tell. I think, without any question, I'm incidental in the process. It's the millions of people who go, involved that had an impact. They have had an interesting impact. We now at least talk about having discipline in our own spending and talk about the importance of balancing the budget and paying our debt. We don't do it but at least we started talking about it. The Clinton economic plan never balances the budget, never gets the deficit increase in one year down below $200 billion dollars debt increase in one year in 1998. Then it takes off like a rocket and goes back up to $400 billion in the year 2003. That's before we pass Health Care. We have a lot of work to do. We've got to have a balanced budget amendment, in our opinion. We've got to have a line-item-veto and it's got to be real so that the President has the option of getting rid of the pork. We've got to do a whole series of things to put discipline around spending because right now it is fun and fashionable to promise and spend and nobody seems to remember that the money has to come from somewhere, and nobody seems to remember that this money finally comes from taxpayers who have jobs and the amount of taxes they pay is a function of what their job pays. If I have a job making nothing I don't pay any taxes. If I have a good job I can pay some taxes. The most important thing to do is have our people at work and a strong growing tax base in our country so that with discipline on spending we can balance the budget, pay down the debt, and not leave our children the mess we are leaving them now.

Brian: At the front page of the Arkansas Democrat Gazette there is an article here by Jennifer Linn, Nightwriter, Tregan News Service and the headline is GATT Scam, meaning the general agreement in tariffs and trade. Trade pact means taxes and the lead on this is 'most taxpayers don't know it yet but the landmark world trade agreement that was reached last month will cost them as much as $20 billion over the next 10 years'. Why don't we know it?

Perot: Because we don't get all the facts. In the establishment (for lack of a better term) there is this great enthusiasm for making all these trade deals. We have a history of being out-negotiated badly. We were certainly out-negotiated badly in NAFTA. We should have a trade agreement with Mexico. It should be a fair trade agreement. We should have these GATT trade agreements. They should be fair. We just get out-traded but that's an American tradition. We give away the store and as we do that, you see, two million jobs have already gone to Asia. A half million jobs have gone to Mexico. These are manufacturing jobs, the best paying working jobs in the country. The people who had these jobs were making $440 a week. If they have a job now they make $270 a week. A person making $270 a week does not pay as much taxes as a person making $440 a week. A person out of a job pays no taxes, pays no social security, is on welfare, so it's a triple hit to the economy; and, then the fourth factor is everybody who still has a job has to pick up the slack and pay more taxes because of the debt. You see we perpetrate myths. SMOOT-HAWLEY did not create the depression. SMOOT-HAWLEY was not passed until 6 months after the depression started. If you look at what percent of our gross national product was shipping goods over-seas it was tiny at that point in time. That would not have created a depression in this country. The Federal Reserve shrunk the money supply by 30% and most businesses in depression now say that's what really triggered it off. They just sucked the money out of the economy and the banks didn't have the money, etc., and the rest was history. But we still have all these cliches and buzz words like Adam Smith, free trade, etc. Fair free trade, fine! But, there is an unlimited supply of people in this world who will work for 25 cents an hour. There is an unlimited supply around the world of children who will sew clothes for less than that. If we ship all our jobs to the cheapest labor in the world we will eradicate the middle class in this country, eradicate the tax base, and we'll have a very different country in 10 or 15 years.

Brian: The President in a year-end interview said that NAMA was a magic moment for him of all the things that happened during the year. How did he get it done? Why weren't you able to stop him?

Perot: Well, lets look at what had no im- pact. All the former Presidents came out for it! That had no impact. Then he had the Secretary of State and other officials come out for it. That had no impact. Then he got Lee Iacoca in! That had no impact. Then Mexico sent $30 million worth of lobbying money up here! That had no impact. Corporate America had $30 and $35 million in lobbying money wanting to go to cheap labor! That had no impact. President Salinas did an interview explaining that to the American people! That had no impact. Nothing was working!

Brian: How do you know that none of that worked?

Perot: Because I was up there walking the halls of Congress and it was just like zero. We had the vote. NAM'A was dead because there it was not in the interest to the American people. Then in a very pragmatic way and I believe improper way they opened the Treasury and bought the votes. They got 234 votes in the House and you divide that by the amount of money promised to the Congressman, that's $7\frac{1}{2}$ million dollars for each of the 234 votes. That's the way it was bought and the mood in Washington was, well that's just the way we do business up here. If that is, that's not a proper way to do business. Things should be decided on their merits. The Republicans who were strongly for it did a poll right after the vote and found that 60% of the registered Republicans were against it. I'm just fascinated since they live and breathe off polls they didn't run results.

The sad thing is, and we are seeing it now, seeing the Mexican people revolt that you see down there. The Mexican people are saying what we were saying for months, that the Mexican worker is not treated fairly. The Mexican worker is a good worker. He is 90% as productive as the American worker. If he makes $1/7$ as much as a United States worker building cars, you can't compete with that. Everything we do, Brian, is linked together. We treat it in Washington just like each thing is on a separate island and there is no inner connection. It's all linked together.

Let's us assume your competitor goes to Mexico to take advantage of the cheap labor and not have any pollution and environmental regulations: dump it in the Rio Grande, pump it in the air, dig holes in the ground and dump chemical waste down in the underground water supply and have a disproportionate number of workers around this chemical plant, babies born without brains. You've got a chemical plant in the United States. You can't compete with that. You're going to Mexico or you're going out of business.

Then, let's assume you're a red white and blue guy. You're hanging up here barely making money. Health care passes. Your competitors are going to Mexico to get away from it. You will have to go to Mexico! But there is a gap here since it all interrelates. The reason everybody wants to sell into the United States because we are the biggest market for goods and services in the world. They say, 'don't worry, the Japanese and everybody will keep building automobile plants here'. No, they are going to build automobile plants in Mexico. Just watch the activity in Mexico, because it's a huge economic advantage and they can ship it across the border duty free. We are the biggest buyer of goods and services in the world today. The reason we are is that our people have good jobs and can afford to buy things. People who don't make anything can't buy anything. If we lower the standard of living of our people, not only do we reduce our ability to balance the budget and pay the debts, but we reduce our ability to purchase and we no longer have the ace of being the biggest market in the world. See everybody should want to build factories here since this is the place they sell things. It is so tough to do business here nobody wants to build a factory here. In a perfect world with everything interrelated, there would be a rush of capitol from around the world and a rush of building facilities from around the world into the U.S. because we are the market. But no, no, it's too expensive to do anything here so you try to sit offshore, dump goods in here, use the cheapest labor you can find but the blind spot is that if the people don't have jobs, they won't be the biggest market in the world. All this takes time. The bad news is we think 10 minutes ahead, the Japanese think 10 years ahead.

Brian: Speaking of trade, if the President were to lift the trade embargo against Vietnam, what would your reaction be?

Perot: We left men behind at the end of the war. We know we left men behind. Anybody that questions that, and if C-Span hasn't done it get Senator Smith and his staff sometime to give the briefing using the recently released intelligence documents. These are government documents that have been classified for years and evidence is just overwhelming. I've known this for years. I've said it for years. Many others have, but now you can take their documents and prove your case. It is morally wrong to send men into combat and leave them behind at the end of a war. At the end of Vietnam, (you can get the declassified documents) and you've got the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of Defense, talking about the fact that we've got to start bombing again in order to get the rest of our POWs out. That's at the end of March 1973. April 13, 1973, two weeks later they declared no more living Americans in Southeast Asia. The facts are, see, there was no will to start bombing again. Here was the real problem and here is the real problem today with the men we left behind. We've promised the Vietnamese reparations money. They released a group of prisoners and held the rest until they got the money, which was just shrewd on their part, frankly. War is ugly. War is dirty. There is nothing pretty about war but war does have rules and politics doesn't. There are rules of war. There are no rules in politics. But, they kept part of the people then Congress was angry and wouldn't pay the reparations money. Watergate was in full flight, the American people were in disarray, and they just shut it down. In the words of Dr. Kissinger, he had no leverage and he was running it. He had no leverage at that time to continue negotiating.

How would you like to be over there for 20 years? It's now 1994. Twenty-one years left behind by the greatest country in the history of man. And in the race to make a little money in a country, Vietnam, let's go ahead and recognize them and just write these men off. Let's just look at our history. We left men behind in Russia, World War II. We left men behind in Korea. We left men behind in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos. Russia took people out of Vietnam to Russia and that's war. They wanted to find out all the intelligence information they could on our electronics, airplanes and what-have-you. Those people never came back. What happened to them? ALL should be accounted for. This should be a moral problem for our country. Instead, it's being swept under the rug and very little coverage is given to all this intelligence data that is now public record. And there is the rush to recognize. The rush should be that we go look for remains in Vietnam but there is no real effort at all to search for live Americans. No IFs, ANDs and BUTs. They had a second tier prison system. You can see that in all the intelligence documents. You can see it in the Russian documents, etc., etc. And all the data at the end of the war and since the war (talking about the number of men we left behind) it's several hundred. The question is how many are still alive? And the moral obligation is to bring them home!

At one time there was a video tape that Who's Who, the Intelligence community thought was valid (that one former Special Forces guy had seen) that showed POWs in the Golden Triangle being used as slave labor. They were using them to cut timbers. They were just using them for the toughest, hardest kind of work.

Brian: Do you think that there are still some Americans alive—prisoners of war?

Perot: Yes, yes.

Brian: Do you think they are still living in Vietnam?

Perot: They probably—well again, when I say it they will move them so I had rather not discuss it. But, I've a good idea where they are.

Again, going back, if the Resident lifts the embargo? The primary concern is that, using the old statement, dead men tell no tales. You'll never have to be embarrassed or explain about living POWs if you kill them, and what a tragedy after all these years. These men deserve to come home and spend whatever years they have remaining in their lives in this country that they literally have given years of their lives defending. And I'm sure the average guy would say he would rather have his name on the Vietnam wall, killed in combat during the war than to have to endure 20-some-odd-years of hell; for example, being used as slave labor. These are Majors, Lt. Colonels, Colonels. Stories of them being used as human beings pulling plows. At one time there was a video tape that Who's Who, the Intelligence community thought was valid (that one former Special Forces guy had seen) that showed POWs in the Golden Triangle being used as slave labor. They were using them to cut timbers. They were just using them for the toughest, hardest kind of work. Stories of people who escaped came in to places like the Swedish paper mill. The workers wanted to protect [them]. The manager contacted the embassy and they turned them back to the Vietnamese and on and on and on!!!

Walls In Our Minds

by M. J. 'Red' Beckman

In light of what has taken place on the national scene relative to President Clinton's sales tactics exercised in purchasing enough votes to assure passage of NAFTA, the following distinction between "Politicians" and "Statesmen" seems most appropriate.

'Red' is a Patriot who believes in the form of government that was established by our Founding Fathers over 200 years ago. Unfortunately, the American people have allowed that government to be eroded by Politicians. Here is what Big 'Red' Beckman has to say on the subject. This is excerpted from his book, Walls In Our Minds, which is available through Common Sense Press, P.O. Box 1544, Billings, Montana 59103.

* The difference between a Politician and a Statesman will explain why politicians are all bad. Most Americans are not aware that an alternative to politicians exists. Most Americans have believed so many lies that many believe a government cannot function without politicians. Our lawful form of government was designed by STATESMEN. Very few Americans know we have had a change in our form of government. Our present government and our lawful government are not similar in principle. Our present government is controlled by politicians and our lawful government was controlled by we, the people.

When we, the people, began to believe politicians lies, our form of government changed dramatically. Statesmen are never elected to public office when voters want to believe politicians' promises.. ..

* The people who created the A-bomb were twice dangerous and stupid. They created an evil monster and then gave control of the monster to politicians. Creativity can be a blessing or a curse. Statesmen create beneficial servant-governments. Politicians create destructive tyrannical governments.

* The difference between Statesmen and Politicians can become even more visible when you consider the following list of contrasts:

1. A Statesman loves the Constitution.
A Politician hates the Constitution.
2. A Statesman enforces the Constitution.
A Politician violates the Constitution.
3. A Statesman uses truth to keep power in the hands of the people.
A Politician uses lies to gain power over the people.
4. A Statesman's primary concern is to secure freedom for future generations.

A Politician's primary concern is to get elected or re-elected.

5. A Statesman will not play politics with the people's money.

A Politician will buy votes with tax money.

6. A Statesman knows the people must control government.

A Politician believes the government should control the people.

7. A Statesman knows the people must limit government's power to tax.

A Politician believes government should have unlimited power to tax.

8. A Statesman gives his allegiance to the people and country.

A Politician gives his allegiance to government.

9. A Statesman will demand a balanced budget.

A Politician will spend money stolen from future generations (deficit spending).

10. A Statesman will cause peace.

A Politician will cause wars.

* This is only a partial list of contrasts but it should give the reader a better comprehension of how dangerous politicians are.

* Either the people control the government, or the government controls the people. If we, the people, control government, our public servants will be statesmen.... Governments tend to become cancerous if the people do not maintain control. Politicians are the cancer and the government is the host... (In America) we have a politician controlled government which is self destructing. We have a majority, who have limited conscience, and it is they who have allowed politicians to function in our system. As a result, we have government control of we, the people, instead of we, the people, in control of government"

We have a responsibility to ourselves which the Creator gave to us at creation and said, 'You are as spiritual as you are going to get—because you are of Me. Because you are of Me, you are as spiritual as you are going to get.' Simply take that knowledge and utilize it to its maximum and in that, find the peace and balance as it can be applied to your decisions. Find the peace and balance wjthiⁿ yourself. America's Nuclear Secrets

1/15/94 NORA BOYLES

The following summary and analysis was taken from an article in the December 27, 1993 issue of Newsweek Magazine. Many of you will still be able to locate it in your public library, magazine section, if you want confirmation and the complete article. The article was written by several reporters: Russell Watson, Daniel Glick, and Mark Hosenball in Washington, John McCormick in Chicago, Andrew Murr in Los Angeles, Sharon Begley and Susan Miller in New York, Ginny Carroll in Houston and Sherry Keene-Osborn in Denver.

America's Nuclear Secrets

This article turns out to be less of a "revelation" of dirty facts and dirtier politics than it is, I believe, a cover story to belatedly and "unofficially" warn the American public of a very real danger; to smooth over, as much as possible, the reprehensible and diabolical acts of "our" government; and to make the unknowing ones think the "government" is actually doing something. The article deals with radiation experiments on unsuspecting humans, secret nuclear tests, and the tons of deadly nuclear waste soon to make a recognizable, large and deadly wasteland of many areas in the United States. Remember, the press is controlled. We get, in this story, what the controllers want us to have. It is getting so bad they are now willing to tell us more of the problem so when it really HITS us we can't say we were not warned (unofficially)..

About the middle of December, 1993, Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary was said to have blown the whistle on her own department and the rest of the government's nuclear establishment. She revealed that over the last 45 years the United States has set off * 204 unannounced nuclear explosions and conducted radiation experiments on 600 human guinea pigs." This is not all. There is a mountain of secret documents waiting to be "declassified". While one can champion Hazel O'Leary's 'whistle blowing', one KNOWS from other bits and pieces of information discovered over these '45 years" that this 'revelation" is only the tip-of-the-iceberg, AND it is VERY LATE IN COMING! So—why do the media controllers tell us now?

In reading the article I see that several congressional reports have been made in the past regarding the dangers of radiation, nuclear testing, and human guinea-pigs. The problem is—THEY WERE BURIED! NOTHING WAS DONE! So—maybe O'Leary's action will also be 'conveniently* BURIED, OR, the "government" is preparing us for some other action—such as another huge tax bill for clean-up, and possible total national disarmament and United Nations control. (Think about it.) In any event, the VICTIMS of the nuclear and radiation experiments were not reported as having been given governmental help or reimbursement for damages done.

In fact, any acknowledgement that the "government" erred, has not been made. It is suggested that the experiments were deemed necessary in order to find out all about 'atomic energy and radiation" and their effects on humans. In other words, 'the end justifies the means". These were the same excuses the Nazis and Japanese used in their "human experiments" during World War II. That Americans would even now consider this type of "revelation" as being an "acceptable" part of warfare, or cold-warfare, or 'our*" government, will tell us a great deal about the "American" public today.

John Simpson, a retired astrophysicist, and a scientist who worked in the dawn of the nuclear age" defends (with other scientists) the 'validity of the plutonium tests" on humans! Mr. Simpson is said to have "worked on health and safety issues as a group leader of the Manhattan Project", which developed the atomic bomb. Well—SO MUCH FOR THE INTEGRITY OF THESE SCIENTISTS! (Don't you think it a little STRANGE that an astro-physicist was in charge of 'health and safety issues"???)

But then, how many of you know that the Manhattan Project used many scientists from NAZI GERMANY? The excuse given to the public was that if the U.S. did not make use of these military and scientific 'experts", the Russians would! WHY not incarcerate the lot of them instead and save the Americans and the Russians, AND the rest of the world a lot of pain? Because, you have the BANKERS, THE MILITARY COMPLEX, THE INDUSTRIAL GIANTS, the scientists, medical experts & the government lap-dogs who want to make a killing! The sickening realization is—we have trusted them too long!

I was in Oregon at the time the public was suspecting the HANFORD Nuclear Plant, located in Richmond, Washington was regularly showering its neighbors with radio-active material south and east of the plant, and across much of eastern Oregon, Washington, etc. It was YEARS before people in its path had enough physical symptoms to realize they had been victims of radiation. The government stone-walled any 'revelations" at that time. According to this article in Newsweek, the "accidents" happened between 1948 and 1952.

Also, "A secret INTERNAL memo uncovered in 1986 described the infamous Green River experiment, in which plant managers (at Hanford) deliberately released a huge cloud of radioactive iodine-131, to see how far downwind it could be traced (here you see the & use of astrophysicists in nuclear "health" programs). The cloud floated over Spokane and drifted all the way to the California-Oregon border, carrying hundreds, or perhaps thousands, of times more radiation than that emitted by the 1979 Three Mile Island accident in Pennsylvania." (Emphasis and parentheses mine—Nora.)

So—you see, even the hullabaloo created by the Three Mile Island accident in 1979 did not deter these deadly "scientists" from even a larger and more potent, SECRET experiment of a similar nature in 1986. Not content with testing accidental exposures of humans to the fall-out, they deliberately set-up an even greater happening on which to experiment. Who were these "managers"? Who gave the "orders"?

WHO NOW TRUSTS OUR GOVERNMENT?

Im afraid that Hazel O'Leary, Energy Secretary, was a bit shy of the actual total numbers of persons who have been the victims of governmental experiments. How do you count the numbers of persons when the experiments covered entire states?

"The Department of Energy's (DOE) Nuclear weapons complex spreads over 4,000 square miles in 13 states." Steven Blush, a former DOE safety official forced out of his job reports that the "bomb factories averaged three accidents a day in 1991 and 1992".

Rockwell International in their Denver, Colorado plant was recently accused, along with DOE officials, of participating in "an ongoing criminal enterprise by ignoring environmental laws". The local U.S. attorney declined to prosecute, and instead announced a plea bargain with Rockwell, which agreed to pay a fine of $18.5 million—slightly less than the annual performance bonus it receives for successful stewardship of the plant."

And how was your day?

(Summarized by P. Berger, 1/9/94)

"GENETIC GARDENING"—by Robert Lee Hotz, Times Science writer from L.A. Times (No date).

Mitch Hein, a scientist at Scripps Research Institute, is cultivating alfalfa sprouts that could, if successful, stem a cholera epidemic.

In the cell biologist's growth chamber is a scraggly alfalfa seedling that has been engineered to contain just enough of the deadly cholera toxin that he believes will confer immunity to anyone who eats enough of it. Each plant is an edible vaccine.

No need for purified, refrigerated serum or hypodermic needles...just salad dressing.

If successful, the genetic manipulation of fruits and vegetables promises to revolutionize public health, particularly in developing countries such as Bangladesh, India, China and Thailand. The simplest procedure is to give these countries the seed. Let them plant it, grow it and harvest it.

With the linking of agriculture to human medicine, biologists have coupled advanced theories of how the body's immune system fights off disease with the latest in recombinant DNA technology. The objective is to take advantage of the natural ability to build resistance against an illness through exposure to edible nontoxic compounds called antigens, which are isolated from a virulent virus or bacteria. The antigens provoke the antibodies that confer immunity without making one sick.

Using recombinant DNA technology, researchers can isolate the genes that trigger immunity, cut them free with enzymes and insert them into a harmless organism. Until recently, no one thought to use plants as a replacement for vaccine serums.

A major hurdle will be to produce edible vaccines in large enough quantities to be effective. According to Hein, the recent field test conducted with Samuel Roberts Nobel Foundation demonstrated that the new alfalfa plants definitely produced the antigen; however, at lower levels than the laboratory plants. "We are not sure of the reason."

From ancient times plants have played a major role in medicine to the extent that today, one fourth of prescription drugs used in the U.S. owe their origins to plant substances; this increasing activity is due to scientists' frustrations with their inability to synthesize new drugs from scratch.

Other experimentation is on-going since 1991 at the Missouri Botanical Garden where researchers have been collecting twigs, bark, flowers and fruit for the National Cancer Institute in tropical Africa and Madagascar. The material will be screened for potential anti-cancer and anti-HIV treatments. This fall the New York Botanical Gardens began a $2-million nation wide plant search for Pfizer Inc. Charles Arntzen at Texas A & M University is trying to develop a banana that can prevent hepatitis B, an illness that strikes up to 300 million people worldwide annually.

It is estimated that the edible vaccines would probably be no more effective than most vaccines available today, but they would be cheaper and easier to distribute.

Hein is now mulching the dried alfalfa into "mouse chow" and feeding it to laboratory mice in order to calculate how much they need to digest to develop immunity. Then he hopes to learn how the plant is concentrating the cholera antigen in its tissue and how to control the amount. "After that point, it is not science anymore, it is eating. That is culinary art," Hein said, "Should we serve it up as oatmeal, or serve it up as bread or as alfalfa sprouts?"

The ultimate objective is to develop an affordable and safe way for even the most poverty-stricken parts of the world to protect themselves against disease.

Russian Military Vehicles in U.S.

Dec. 30, 1993, a German freighter docked at Gulfport, Mississippi. 540 Russian Military vehicles were offloaded, shipped to a location in Biloxi on Highway 49.

That's enough transportation to support 20,000 to 80,000 ground troops. (Calls flooded the local radio show WTIK AM, Ron Hunter.)

A Lt. Col. Alfred KOVAL claims he owns them and plans to paint them and reship.

Nepal Gurkas warriors are training in the U.S., the word is these vehicles will go to Ft. Polk in Louisiana for their future use, by U.N. troops...but not in foreign lands!

- The only International Agency of French Free Press in America which links up with all the top information coming out from Europe, all North America territory, Australia, Asia and Africa.

- In fact, the Network analyses, verifies and translates all top information usually not published by traditional Medias in order to make it accessible in english for all North America territory and Australia, and in french for Europe and Africa.

- The only International Free Press Agency which publishes the 95 percent of all information usually unpublished by the official Press for political matters.

Don't Forget New Madrid Fault!

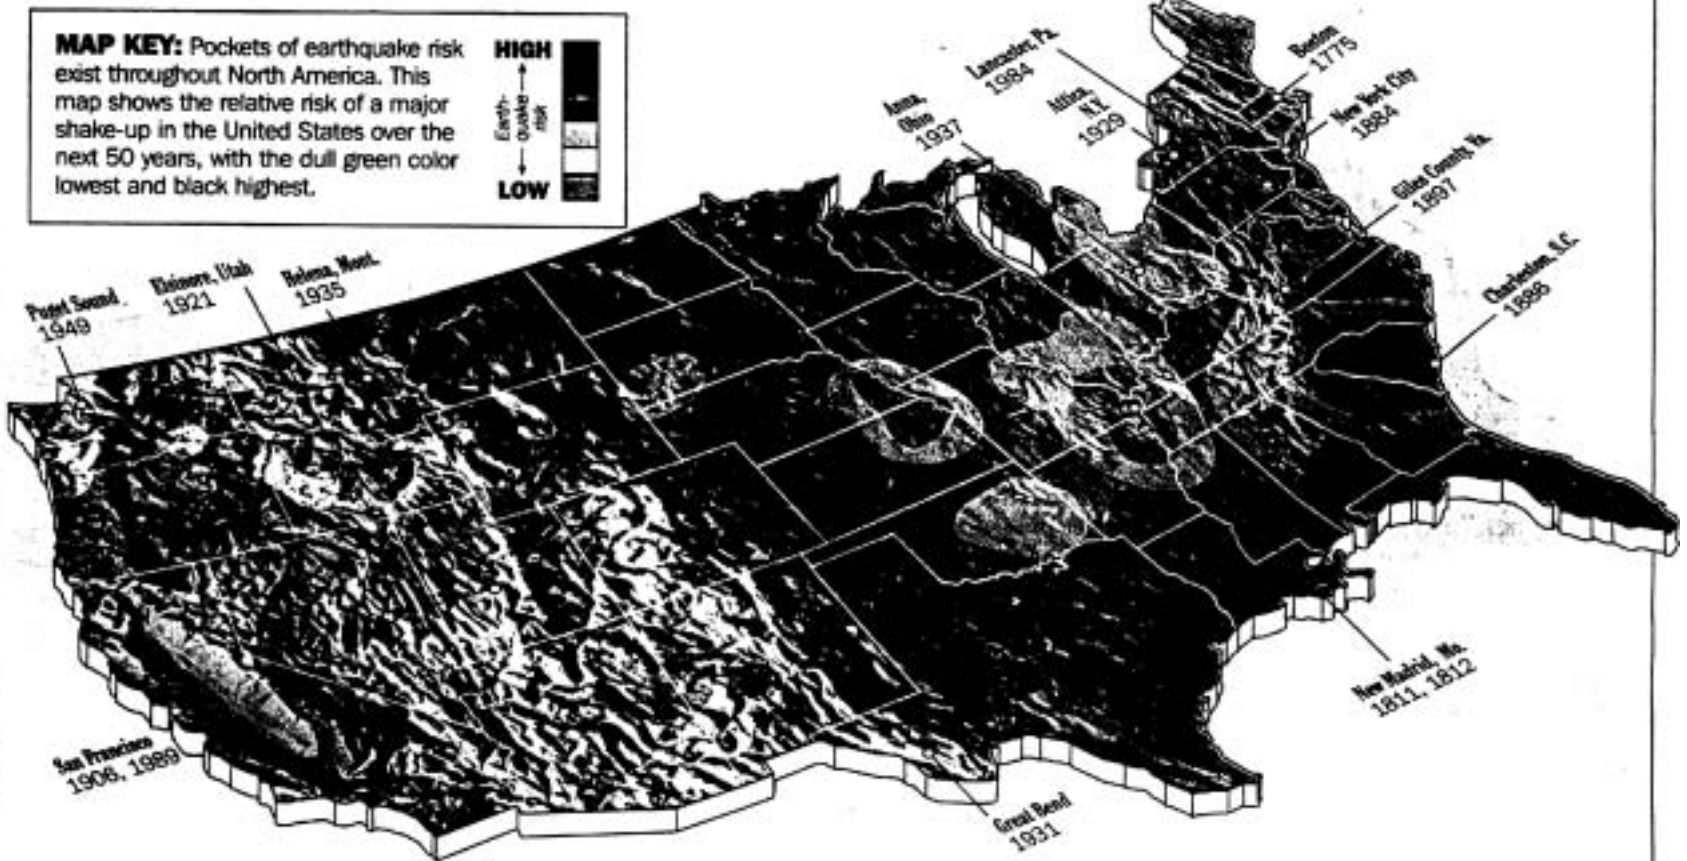

(Editor's note: Related to the writing on Page 17 of last week's CONTACT, Commander Hatonn asked that the following important feature from the 1/31/94 issue of U.S. News & World Report be shared with you. Needless to say, with the 4.2 earthquake just occurring on 2/5/93 at 8:55 A.M. in Cape Girardeau, MO, this warning should certainly NOT be taken lightly! When it goes, the New Madrid Fault will ALSO cause significant upheaval both north and south of the United States' continental borders as it opens a gap and water conduit along a line approximating the Mississippi River, physically connecting the Great Lakes with the Gulf of Mexico.)

RUMBLINGS COASTTOCOAST

When the 'Big One' finally comes, it may well hit someplace other than California. While that state has more earthquake activity, much of the Midwest is at risk for large — and Potentially more dangerous — earthquakes

MAP BY DOUG STERN AND DAVID S. MURPHY — U.S.G.S.

MAJOR WAKES IN THE U.S.	YEAR	RICHTER SCALE	DEATHS
Anchorage, Alaska	1964	9.2	131
New Madrid, Mo	1811-12 (3 Quakes)	8.4-8.8	Unknown
San Francisco	1906	8.3	2,500
Charleston, S.C.	1886	7.7	110
San Francisco	1989	6.9	62

Three of the nation's largest earthquakes ever have occurred not on the West Coast but in the center of the country. In December of 1811 and January and February of 1812, an area near the town of New Madrid in southeastern Missouri was rocked with successive earthquakes estimated to range from 8.4 to 8.8 on the Richter scale—that is, nearly 100 times as mighty as the quake that hit Los Angeles last week. The Mississippi River flowed backward and changed course; bells rang in Boston church towers, and chandeliers shook in the Capitol in Washington, D.C. The quakes that occur in the Midwest are unusual. Unlike the temblors that rattle the Pacific coastline, they involve no shuffling of the Earth's massive crustal plates along a fault line. But a tremendous pressure does build up as the sea floor spreads from the middle Atlantic and slowly drives the North American plate toward the Pacific. The resulting east-west pressure apparently causes the crust to fracture. If such a temblor does hit the Midwest again, it may have far more damaging consequences than the L.A. quake. The solid crustal plate beneath the Midwest transmits a quake's energy far more efficiently than do the faults in California, meaning that damage would be more widespread. And Midwestern cities are simply not engineered to withstand such shaking and rattling: According to a federal study, a quake like last week's, but centered in Memphis during daylight hours, would kill nearly 3,000 people—a quarter of them in schools, which tend to be older buildings.

Eastern risk. An 1886 temblor estimated at 7.7 killed more than 100 people in Charleston, S.C.

U.S. CONSTITUTION ON DEATH ROW

(ROBERT NEWCOMER - FEBRUARY 2, 1994 - 216-264-2318)

Americans are dangerously close to losing the United States Constitution handed to them on a silver platter by the founding fathers who paid for it with the blood of their families. Changing the Constitution initially requires the application of 34 states. Thirty two states have approved it, with little mention of it in the media, and only two more states are required to make it a frightful reality.

The deceptive guise under which the Constitutional Convention is being justified, to the few that are aware of it, to minimize resistance and disguise the undeniable actual agenda is the balanced budget amendment. The trap here, even if any poorly informed citizen accepted this flimsy reasoning, is that the budget can be easily balanced by merely taxing citizens out of existence. Ohio balanced its budget last year with a billion dollar tax increase and the federal government approved the largest tax increase in history in August of 1993 the agony of which is yet to be felt by each of us.

The HIDDEN danger to allowing a Constitutional Convention is the profound exposure to a runaway convention where existing amendments could come under attack by special interest groups conceivably resulting in innumerable lost freedoms. Many constitutional scholars such as former supreme court justice Arthur Goldberg and Chief Justice Warren Burger as well as many others, including prominent professors of Constitutional law, feel that a runaway convention is not only possible but probable. Do you want to trust the rewriting of the U. S. Constitution to a group in Washington that opposes every Christian value cherished by our founding fathers?

Some Ohio legislators, are very motivated for whatever reason, to secretly making Ohio the thirty third state to support the Constitutional Convention. Senate Bill SJR #7 (MOST DANGEROUS) was sponsored by Senator Snyder and Co-sponsored by Senator's Gillmor, Schafrath, Finan, Ray, Gaeth, Williams, Levey, Zaleski, Horn, Drake, Sinagra, Cupp and Kearns. SJR #6 which also amends the U. S. Constitution was sponsored by Senator Watts and Co-sponsored by Senator's Finan and Ray. The manner in which Ohio state legislators handled this legislation over the past week was blatantly deceptive, conducted in virtual secrecy with no checks and balances or reference of it in the news media.

The review and approval process for these two Bills before they were presented to the Senate was a complete fraud. Both of these Bills were routed through the Senate Ways and Means committee on January 25, 1994 where both Bills were approved. Senator Finan is chairman of this committee and also a co-sponsor on both Bills so they sailed right through this committee with no proper challenge. They were then routed to the Rules committee on February 1, 1994 for further review and approval prior to being sent to the Senate. Senator Finan is also Co-chairman of this committee and Senators Gaeth, Ray, Snyder, and Zaleski who sit on the Rules committee were all co-sponsors to SJR #7. Why would you send a Bill to be reviewed by the same people who proposed it? The State Senate then convened at 1:30 PM on the same day and approved SJR #7 with a 19 to 14 vote with 100 percent of the senate present. That was the only substantive issue addressed by the senate that day so why was the entire Ohio Senate standing by to vote on a bill that may or may not be approved by committee !!

In essence 19 State Senators decided what was best for 260 million Americans with total disregard for public opinion and without any type of internal check and balance system within the state legislative process. Does this sound like representative government or could this be special interest groups at work in Ohio !! The last chance to stop this charade is in the house of representatives which could make this disaster final if the media does not inform the citizens and the citizens do not take immediate action. Call Ohio Representatives today and demand that they scrap this dangerous legislation and leave the U. S. Constitution alone. Advise them to contact the Florida, Alabama and Louisiana state legislators as all three of these states rescinded their previous approval of a Constitutional Convention once they discovered the potential dangers associated with it. This same effort was just defeated in the New Jersey legislature after the citizens became aware of it. Politicians do what is best for the next election and Statesmen do what is best for the next generation. No Statesmen would ever condone this conduct in America or lead its citizens down such a destructive course !!!

New Gaia Products

GAIANDRIANA

Gaiandriana is a non-alcoholic health tonic which provides basic "foods" to help cells, weakened by the stresses of modern life, to return to a state of health.

The better our cells function, the greater is the stamina returned to our internal defense systems, and the better we can counter the constant onslaught of biological and viral invaders. The end result is a feeling of well-being by, of course, being well.

The Gaiandriana (commonly referred to as "chondriana" in the Biological Literature) are capable of intelligent, organized attack against cellular invaders like viruses. Think of it as a "pac-man" operation of sorts. However, beyond that, the Gaiandriana are capable of stimulating cellular structural repairs due to damage caused by, for instance, free radicals and cumulative levels of so-called "background" radiation in our modern environment. Healthy DNA and RNA within the nuclei of our cells then lead to properly formed and concentrated enzymes, upon which healthy cellular function depends.

Gaiandriana liquid is made entirely from wholesome natural ingredients.

AQUAGAIA

Complementary to the Gaiandriana product, AquaGaia is also a non-alcoholic health tonic which provides basic "foods" to help cells, weakened by the stresses of modern life, to return to a state of healthy function.

AquaGaia contains mitochondria. These are the major biochemical energy "processors" within cellular metabolism. First, enzymes begin the breakdown process of organic nutrients (like fats, carbohydrates and proteins) to intermediate substances such as amino and pyruvic acids. Then, in the next "bucket brigade" step, these various acid molecules are processed within the mitochondria to release chemical energy recognized as adenosine triphosphate (ATP).

About 95% of the energy needed to "run the machinery" that keeps each cell going and healthy is produced in the mitochondria. Unfortunately, the mitochondria are particularly damaged by free radicals and cumulative levels of so-called "background" radiation in our modern environment. These compromised mitochondria, like half-dead batteries, then lead to impaired cellular functioning and health. Thus is the importance of AquaGaia, with its assimilable supply of healthy mitochondria — like "fresh batteries" for the body's cells.

The better our cells function, the greater is the stamina returned to our internal defense systems, and the better we can counter the constant onslaught of biological and viral invaders.

2/11/93 #2 HATONN

GAIANDRIANA & AQUAGAIA

To help in understanding the workings of these organic "pac-men" you must realize that there is a protein covering "cap" on viruses. The protein cap is centered on a charged zinc atom and is the part of the virus that recognizes and binds to DNA—in turn allowing the virus to reproduce.

AquaGaia, in conjunction with the Gaiandriana, knock out the zinc atom (a simple "charge" change), which renders the protein ineffective. This is a breakdown of "parts" of the Gaiandriana male-female DNA structure which releases many working variants but frees the Gaiandriettes or "killers" to take out that zinc atom and pass right into the affected cell. Without the "cap", the virus cannot reproduce and infect more cells—further, the damaged virus feeds the Gaiandriana unified cells and the circulating mitochondria.

Healthy cells are not affected because they lack the zinc-centered protein cap on the virus.

These "Gaia" compounds have an effect on cancer cells because they stop an enzyme on the cancer cells from producing a "messenger" molecule that blocks a second enzyme from attacking the cancer cell's DNA. The compounds (Gaia) have been seen to actually take out leukemia, breast, brain and colon cancer cells. We have no claim to anything other than stating that people utilizing these simple and natural substances do show improved well-being and do report feeling generally and, often remarkably, improved as to state of health, thought processes and stamina.

The obvious conclusion is that there might well be good reports of better health and faster recovery, following infection by other viruses, than those mentioned above. All viruses known react in generally the same manner.

It is known that many diseases are due to retroviral DNA and these are the most affected viruses by the Gaia-chondrianas (living crystal forms). We, again, make no medical claims—we are simply reporting in an effort to explain WHAT takes place within the cellular structures of living organisms.

NOTE

If any product you receive has an unpleasant odor — it is from the finishing culture process. Leave the bottle open to air and it will quickly dissipate. Then, depending on taste and preference—refrigerate after opening and reclosing.

IMPORTANT: Do not mix the two, Gaiandriana and AquaGaia, together for storage as the AquaGaia (mitochondria) are aggressive and begin to "eat" the Gaiandriana for fuel. Once ingested, they go about their appointed tasks, but in bottle prisons they are not particularly compatible once the available fuel supply is exhausted. Juices are excellent to take with the AquaGaia because the mitochondria must have the fuel derived from same, the most effective juice being from the tropical "Guava" fruit. Any juice is fine, however, and is most pleasant to intake. Diabetics should utilize whatever juices are available on their food plan to keep within the safe guidelines for calories and other requirements.

The most innocuous and easy intake available is simply a few drops under the tongue, both products taken at the same time or at different times of the day. Once the "initial" program is completed, and the maintenance level of intake is being followed, certainly the drops under the tongue are the least annoying to any daily regimen.

A-GE ANTI-OXIDANT FORMULA

There is growing evidence that essentially everyone in our society is exposed to free radicals, now more than ever. While free radicals are normal products of our cells and have certain beneficial roles in the body, increased levels of free radicals in our body tissues can be detrimental to our health. Free radicals are highly unstable substances produced in the body through, among other routes, metabolism of oxygen. Free radicals multiply through a series of chain reactions and can attack the polyunsaturated fatty acids of cell membranes. Unless excess free radicals are neutralized, they can cause considerable damage to the structure and function of cell membranes and thus, the cells themselves.

The products from free radical reactions are implicated in the progressive accumulation of deleterious cellular changes over time, which may eventually result in recognizable disease. Free radical damage is implicated in the initiation and promotion of many cancers, as well as atherosclerosis.

One area of aging research suggests that free radicals damage body cells and cause the pathological changes associated with aging. Besides being by-products of the metabolism of oxygen, such as during strenuous exercise, we are also exposed to significant sources of free radicals from the environment, such as from so-called "background" levels of ionizing radiation.

Cooperative defense systems that can protect the body from free radical damage include certain enzymes and the antioxidant vitamins A, C, and E and Beta-Carotene, which protect cell membranes from oxidative damage. Vitamin E, one of the fat-soluble vitamins, is present in the blood as d-alpha-tocopherol and is well accepted as the major antioxidant in lipid body tissues. Vitamin E is considered the first line of defense against cell-membrane damage due to peroxidation. Vitamin E scavenges free radicals, terminating chain reactions and confining damage to limited areas of the membrane. Selenium contained in the enzyme glytathione peroxidase is the second line of defense that destroys peroxides before they can damage cell membranes. Beta-Carotene, a precursor of Vitamin A, also traps free radicals. Vitamin C is water soluble and serves to neutralize free radicals in aqueous systems.

The antioxidants show promise as cancer-prevention agents, alone and in combination.

ALOE JUICE

(Whole Leaf, Cold Pressed Aloe Vera Concentrate)

Aloe Vera has a long and impressive history that spans hundreds of centuries, countries and cultures, and appears in countless "folk remedies" as a plant revered for its healing qualities.

Aloe Juice is a whole-leaf concentrate prepared from the freshly harvested leaves of the Barbadensis Miller Aloe Vera plant. Aloe Juice guarantees a minimum of 10,000 mg. of mucopolysaccharides per liter.

The nutrients reported in Aloe Vera include mucopolysaccharides and polysaccharides (glucomannans), glycoproteins, glucose, mannose, galactose, xylose, arabinose, tannins, steroids, organic acids, antibiotic principles, glucuronic acids, enzymes (oxidase, catalase and amylase), trace sugars, calcium oxalate, a protein containing 18 amino acids, "wound healing" hormones, biogenic stimulators, saponins, vitamins B1, B2, niacin, B6, choline, folic acid, chloride, sulfate, iron, calcium, copper, sodium, potassium, silicon, manganese, plus many other metabolism-assisting components.

GINKGO BILOBA

(Ginkgo Biloba extract, 24%)

The Ginkgo Biloba extract is a complex compound. The green leaves of the tree are usually harvested from trees grown on plantations in South Korea, Japan and France.

Ginkgo is reported to have a natural affinity for the nervous system. It also seems to stimulate the vascular and endocrine systems that, in turn, strongly affect the function of the nervous system, possibly increasing the capacity for normal physical activity, and the flow of blood to the brain. Some research indicates the possible effectiveness of Ginkgo in the treatment of Alzheimer's disease.

Due to its pharmacological properties, Ginkgo is now widely used throughout Europe for treating many forms of vascular disease. In a survey of packaging information of European products, Ginkgo has been recommended for such ailments as headaches, vertigo, inner-ear disturbances, diminished intellectual capacity and alertness as a result of insufficient circulation to the brain, anxiety, and depression, to name a few.

Ginkgo Biloba Extract (24%) is concentrated from the leaves of the Ginkgo Biloba tree. The highly specialized extraction process yields a 50:1 concentrate from the leaves (50 grams of leaf produce 1 grain of extract). The extract is then further standardized to contain 24% of the active Ginkgo Flavoglycosides.

CHLORELLA

Chlorella is a nutritionally balanced whole food and contributes to the health and growth of human cells like no single vitamin or mineral possibly can.

Chlorella is extremely high in protein (60%) and contains more than 20 vitamins and minerals, 19 of the 22 essential and non-essential amino acids, enzymes and chlorella growth factor. It is one of the richest sources of RNA and DNA known and has twenty times as much chlorophyll as alfalfa, 10 times more than other edible algae including spirulina, and 10 times more than barley grass.

Chlorella is a natural vitality enhancer. The vitamins found in chlorella cells include: vitamin C, provitamin A, B-carotene, chlorophyll-A, chlorophyll-B, thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2), pyridoxine (B6), niacin (B3), pantothenic acid, folic acid, vitamin B-12, biotin, choline, vitamin K, PABA, lipoic acid, inositol and para-aminobenzoic acid. The minerals include: phosphorus, potassium, iodine, magnesium, sulphur, iron, calcium, manganese, copper, zinc and cobalt,

The amino acids include: lysine, histidine, arginine, aspartic acid, threonine, serine, glutamic acid, proline, glycine, alanine, cystine, valine, methionine, isoleucine, leucine, tyrosine, phenylalanine, ornithine, tryptophan.

The suggested daily consumption is 3 grams per day.

ECHINACEA GOLD PLUS
(with American Ginseng)

In recent years few medicinal plants have garnered as much attention as Echinacea (Echinacea Purpurea and Echinacea Angustifolia).

Echinacea is a non-specific stimulant to the immune system. Claims for Echinacea include: stimulation of leukocytes, mild antibiotic activity, anti-inflammatory activity, stimulation of the adrenal cortex, stimulation of the properdin-complement system, interferon-like activity, stimulation of general cellular immunity, and antiviral activity. Internal preparations are said to assist in alleviating cold and flu symptoms, respiratory infections, and arthritis, to name a few.

Goldenseal (Hydrastis Canadensis) is among the most popular herbs in the American health food market. Uses are numerous, including but not limited to: antiseptic, hemostatic, diuretic, laxative, and tonic/anti-inflammatory for the mucous membranes, hemorrhoids, nasal congestion, mouth and gum sores and eye afflictions.

Few medicinal plants in the world possess Ginseng's near-legendary status. Dating back thousands of years, its history of use in the Orient records therapeutic properties so wide ranging that it was first dismissed by Western doctors as a "panacea". When fatigued, Ginseng reportedly restores both physical and mental functions to peak efficiency and, with regular use, improves resistance to disease and stress. American Ginseng's genus name is Panax Quinquefolius.

Over 40,000 species of mushrooms exist, many of which are used as medicines. Of particular note are such remedies as penicillin and ergot-based extracts used in migraine treatment, to name a few. Extensive research has been done with one mushroom in particular, namely, Reishi. This mushroom is now considered a tried and true immune system fortifier.
